Zambia Set To Ask Aid Of Soviets

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) —Zambia's President Kenneth Kaunda suggested Friday that he may call for Soviet troops if Britain refuses to invade neighboring white-ruled Rhodesia. The British flew war planes into Zambia during the day for defense but Kaunda said that was not enough.

"If the United Kingdom (Britain) refused to send ground troops," he said, "we could ask the United States."

FOLLOW BRITAIN

He contended, however, that the United States is likely to follow Britain's lead, and added: "What is there left for us to do but go to the Soviet government?" He said this was "just a line of thought."

If the Soviet Union is drawn into the campaign, he added, "this would not only be a racial war, but an ideological one."

The president talked to a news conference as Royal Air Force fighter and transport planes swarmed into the country to defend the Kariba Dam, on the Zambezi River border between Zambia and Rhodesia, which supplies power to the Zampian copper complex.

In Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, delegates from 36 African states voted to break diplomatic relations with Britain on Dec. 15 unless Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government crushes the Rhodesian white-supremacy rebellion by that date.

The delegates to the Organization of African Unity also voted to bar planes to Rhodesia from flying over their territory, cut off all communications with the breakaway British colony and to block all Rhodesian bank accounts. It declared all Rhodesian travel documents void.

In his news conference, Kaunda was critical of RAF strategy of protecting Zambia from Rhodesian attacks.

"It is not Zambia we want to protect," he said, "it is Kariba Dam."

The British have offered to send troops to protect the installation, but negotiations are bogged down over Zambian demands that Britain share command of the operation with Zambia and possibly other nations.

This issue is considered especially vital in London since there is the possibility that troops from African nations might take part in any future operations here.

Besides his specific mention of Soviet and American forces, Kaunda said his country "reserves the right to call troops from anywhere it wants to protect the dam."

He said, however, that he considers the problem primarily a British one.

"Britain said a battalion of ground troops could be sent to Lusaka, but it is Kariba we want to protect," he emphasized.

Lusaka, the capital, is 85 miles from the Rhodesian border. Prime Minister Wilson has told the House of Commons in London that he would try to avoid any military posturing that might accidentally touch off a clash between British and Rhodeisan troops.

Five Killed As Car Sails Off 50-Foot Bridge

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — An auto plunged off a 50-foot high bridge over a bayou near here Friday, sailed 100 feet through the air and crashed upside down on the other side of the bayou, killing five of the six persons in the car.

Adams County sheriff's officers said the car went out of control at a high rate of speed, tore down more than 25 feet of railing, flipped across Foster Mound Creek, and landed on its top.

Killed were Roosevelt Bass, 31, the driver; Lillian Wiley, 28; Gloria Lumkin, 17; Delores Spillers, 17, and her daughter Deborah, 2. All were of the Natchez area.

GEMINI 7 ASTRONAUT James Lovell, left, exchanges quips with Backup Pilot Edward White at the Spacecraft which Lovell and Command Pilot Frank Borman are scheduled to soar on a 14-day ride into space today. Weather Outlook Good For Gemini 7 Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. relaxed Friday on the eve of one of man's greatest space adventures — a two-week endurance flight during which two manned vehicles may fly within inches while orbiting at 17,500 miles an hour.

Success of the marathon mission and the planned rendezvous with Gemini 6 would topple all man-in-space records and considerably enhance America's confidence that it can land astronauts on the moon in this decade.

Most space agency officials feel there is slightly better than a 50-50 chance that the Gemini 7 and 6 rendezvous can be accomplished in mid-December.

The smoothest prelaunch preparations in the history of the U.S. space program coasted without a hitch toward today's scheduled 1:30 p.m. (CST) launching of Gemini 7.

WEATHER BRIGHTENS

The weather outlook, which had caused concern, brightened.

The forecast was for cloudy but satisfactory launching conditions at Cape Kennedy.

All systems in the four-ton spacecraft and the nine-story-tall Titan 2 rocket received thorough checks and were pronounced in excellent shape. Fuel was loaded in the power-producing fuel cells.

Air Force Lt. Col. Borman Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra and Navy Cmdr. Lovell attended a two-hour mission review and then retired to their "ready room" quarters at the Cape to rest and study the complex flight plan that calls for them to circle the globe 206 times in 329 hours 30 minutes — just 6½ hours shy of 14 days.

The Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, practiced rendezvous maneuvers in a spacecraft simulator.

Lovell and Borman were reported anxious to get started.

Borman had dinner Thursday with his wife, Susan, and two sons, who flew here from their Houston, Tex., home for the launching. Borman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Borman of Phoenix, Ariz., also are here.

Mrs. Lovell is expecting a baby — which could arrive while her husband is circling the globe — and remained in Houston.

The flight will be the most extensive test yet of man's ability to physically and mentally withstand long exposure to the space environment. Medical experiments have been given No. 1 priority.

Borman and Lovell will wear new lightweight space suits which they plan to remove for several days during the flight, riding in their long underwear for comfort.

Schirra and Stafford are to take off from the same launch pad on Dec. 13 — nine days after Gemini 7 is airborne — to begin the historic pursuit.

"We've got a good chance of doing it," said flight director Christoper C. Kraft Jr. "There are three factors involved: How well the spacecraft 7 operates, how well we do with the check-out of Gemini 6 spacecraft and launch vehicle, and the weather."

Among those who give the effort a 50-50 chance is Air Force Lt. Col. Jack Albert, Titan launch director.

Retiring

A former Monroe resident, Lt. Col. George L. Whitmeyer of Dallas, Tex., has retired from the U.S. Army after 20 years of service.

Col. Whitmeyer is married to the former Frances Raby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Raby of Monroe. The couple, with their two sons, will continue to reside in Dallas.

Col. Whitmeyer has been stationed in Dallas for the past three years and has served as a senior advisor to the Army Reserve, deputy sector commander and sector commander.

During retirement ceremonies, he received the Oak Leaf Cluster to the Army Commendation Medal. He had previously been awarded the Silver Star, Bronze Star and Purple Heart.

3 Klansmen Convicted On Charges

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Three Ku Klux Klansmen were convicted Friday by a white jury of criminal conspiracy and sentenced by a federal judge to 10 years imprisonment in the slaying of a civil rights worker.

"In my opinion," Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. told the jury, "that was the only verdict you could reach in this case and reach a fair and proper verdict."

10-YEAR SENTENCES

A short time later, Johnson imposed the 10-year sentences — the maximum prison terms — upon the three stunned defendants: Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 22, of Fairfield, Ala., and Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer.

Wilkins, a stocky and crew-cut former mechanic, had been acquitted earlier by a state court jury of murder in the March 25 slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit.

The three Klansmen were convicted under an 1877 statute of conspiring to violate the civil rights of Mrs. Liuzzo and other participants in a Selma-to-Montgomery march climaxing a violence-marked Negro voting rights drive.

When the judge asked the men if they had anything to say before sentence was imposed, Wilkins and Eaton each replied, "I'm innocent of the charge."

Johnson quickly pronounced the sentence in his rapid-fire voice. When he asked Thomas if he had anything to say, the defendant said, "No."

Their attorney said the verdicts will be appealed.

Appeal bonds of $10,000 each were set by the judge and the Klansmen were led away by a federal marshal to begin serving their sentences. They will be eligible for parole after serving one-third of the 10 years.

It was the second guilty verdict in two days by white juries in trials growing out of Alabama racial incidents. A jury at Anniston convicted a white man of murder Thursday in the slaying of a Negro and set the penalty at 10 years in prison.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said the convictions were "a victory for equal justice in the South." He said, however, that the Justice Department will continue working on proposed legislation aimed at insuring equal justice by Southern juries.

Soviets Chill Peace Talks On Viet Nam

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union chilled peace talk about Viet Nam Friday with a bitter denunciation of U.S. policy that virtually ruled out any role for Moscow in setting up negotiations with Communist North Viet Nam.

The United States labeled the Soviet attack as outrageous, but restated its willingness to enter into unconditional negotiations at any time for a peaceful settlement.

A sharp U.S.-Soviet exchange over Viet Nam flared in the General Assembly's Main Political Committee as British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart returned from an unsuccessful mission to Moscow in an effort to bring the Viet Nam crisis to the conference table.

Stewart told reporters at London Airport he felt no optimism about chances for a peace conference at this time, and that he saw no evidence that a halt to U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam would improve the situation.

Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko told the committee that his country would continue to give military and political support to North Viet Nam.

He said that the Soviet Union also supported fully the conditions set down by Ho Chi Minh, the North Vietnamese leader, for a peaceful settlement.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Post replied that the United States has no intention of abandoning its efforts to keep South Viet Nam from falling under Communist domination.

"The United States has no intention of shirking its responsibilities, and calumnies from any quarter will not deter us," he said. "But we are also prepared for unconditional negotiations at any time — which others, despite repeated appeals from many quarters, apparently are not."

He described Viet Nam as a classic example of the Chinese Communist doctrine of intervention, of so-called wars of national liberation.

Enlisted Men's Quarters In Downtown Saigon Hit By Viet Cong Terrorists

More Than 100 Killed Or Injured

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists, breaking a pre-Christmas lull, attacked and blasted a U.S. enlisted men's billet with machine guns, grenades and an explosives-laden market truck before dawn today in downtown Saigon.

Estimates of Vietnamese casualties ranged up to 100, including eight dead.

TWO AMERICANS

A U.S. military spokesman said two Americans were killed and 67 wounded. A New Zealand artilleryman was killed and four of his mates were wounded.

A series of bomb scares swept over the city after the big blast at the Metropole Hotel billet.

As bad as the attack was, the Viet Cong had planned it to be far worse. A Claymore mine was planted in the street with a time-fuse set to go off when the inevitable crowd would gather at the scene. It failed to go off as scheduled to follow the attack.

A terrorist bomb believed to have been a concussion hand grenade exploded near the top floor of a three-story officers' dormitory about two blocks from the Metropole but no one was injured there.

An officer said that explosion followed the big one by about five minutes. It broke windows and damaged a wall.

A police source said a grenade was thrown at the international officer's billet near a large American headquarters complex about two miles from the Metropole blast, but it did not explode.

The attackers first confronted a U.S. military policeman stationed at the Metropole billet across the street from a Navy hospital.

The MP was wounded as he emptied his revolver and shotgun at the attackers. He was able to take refuge behind a barricade in front of the billet as he shot it out with the Communists, who used automatic weapons.

The Navy hospital was undamaged since the billet entrance is on a side street. The Navy dispensary in the same building with the billet was damaged, however, and one source said it might be five or six weeks before the installation with its delicate X-ray and other equipment would be fully operational again.

Nearly all windows in the billet and vicinity were shattered.

No personnel were in the dispensary when the blast went off.

Most of the U.S. and New Zealand casualties were hit by flying glass.

A spokesman said, "Fortunately, all of the boys were in their beds at the time, and not moving around. That meant they got a minimum of hits."

It also seemed likely, however, that many GIs hit the floor when the machine-gun fire erupted in the streets below, since this was a clear signal that another bomb attack on an American installation was under way.

Innocent Vietnamese civilians suffered the worst casualties. This is often the case. Police said at least 12 of the wounded were children.

Across the street from the billet, Vietnamese buses were loading for the day's runs into the provinces when the bomb shattered the soft predawn darkness.

Confidence Is Requested By DeGaulle

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle and his five rivals in Sunday's presidential election officially closed their campaigns Friday night with radio-television appeals for support.

De Gaulle, running for a popularly elected office for the first time in his 75 years, unbent enough to ask for a "demonstration of confidence."

"Frenchwomen, Frenchmen! Once more, before each of you, I have assumed my responsibility," he told the voters. "Sunday, you will take yours."

The president prefaced this with what for him was a rare note of request: "Frenchwomen, Frenchmen, in asking each of you for a demonstration of your confidence, I offer you the decisive means to confirm the new (Fifth) Republic."

He said that with such a confirmation, the "team of action and success" and the masses of the people will continue "the magnificent effort which we have begun. I am certain that, after me, the new republic will endure, alive and fertile, because the sovereign people will have marked it as its own, and that men worthy of it, throughout the years to come, will be chosen to fulfill its destinies."

Much of this was a reply to political points being made by De Gaulle's youngest competitors, Francois Mitterrand and Jean Lecanuet.

Mitterrand, 49, member of a small semi-Socialist splinter party, is running with the endorsement of the Socialist and Communist parties as the candidate of the "United Left" or popular front.

Lecanuet, 45, whose followers have sought to give him a "French Kennedy" image, is a member of the leftist Catholic Popular Republican Movement, and has been running as a center-left candidate.

By chance — the places were drawn by lot — De Gaulle's turn on the radio-television program came just before Lecanuet closed the series as the final speaker.

Lecanuet called upon Frenchmen to join him in forging ahead to "new horizons." He again stressed his plea for France to take the lead in forming a united Europe. As before, he touched on the problem of what happens after De Gaulle.

"The succession is henceforth possible," he said, "without shock, without transition, without any upheaval, but in order and calm. Let us seize this opportunity which may not be repeated and which is our common chance to construct our future."

Warm Reading Expected Today

The first rainfall of the young month was recorded in Monroe Friday with a reading of .05 at FAA, Selman Field.

The extreme readings Friday were a high of 57 and a low of 47.

Need For Goodfellows Aid Seen In Letters

As the Goodfellows 1965 drive to make Christmas a reality for all gained momentum Friday, the mail bag carrying requests for aid gave a grim measure of the job ahead.

The letters from children asked not for toys or bicycles. They asked for something for their parents and their brothers and sisters. They asked for "anything Mr. Goodfellow can give us."

Letters from adults didn't ask for a bountiful Christmas or even a happy one. They only asked for help so that Christmas would be free from hunger — free from hunger in 1965!

NO JOB

A 16-year-old boy writes "We would appreciate anything you can do for us. My Daddy doesn't have a job and we have trouble getting something to eat. There are seven of us in the family."

Another from a 13-year-old girl ended in an almost desperate note. "If you could just help us have something for Christmas."

A widow with two children writes that she has been out of work for two months and ends her letter "Please help us, there is no one else."

An 11-year-old girl looked past her need in her letter. She looked back 1,965 years. "We didn't have any Thanksgiving and we need Mr. Goodfellow to help us, but we will have Christmas. It's Christ's birthday."

Only through contributions will the Goodfellows be able to help those less fortunate. Workers will give families food, clothing and toys the day before Christmas.

Requests for aid and donations should be sent to Goodfellows, in care of the News-Star—World Publishing Co., 411 N. 4th St., Monroe.

Draft Quota Set At 38,280 Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department on Friday asked a draft quota of 38,280 men in January, including 8,980 for the Marine Corps, in line with the buildup of U.S. military strength in Viet Nam.

This compares with a December quota of 40,200. The December total initially was 45,224 and included a request by the Marines for 5,024 but the Marine Corps request was withdrawn.

The January call of 38,280, of which 29,300 is for the Army, is lower than the revised December quota but still higher than any quota since 195.

Sgt. Mac's Party

Charlie Company Will Celebrate Christmas

LAI KHE, South Viet Nam (AP) — It won't be the same — it can't be, without him — but the men in Charlie Company are going ahead with Sgt. Mac's Christmas party.

He'd brought back a helicopter loaded down with toys from Saigon for the local Vietnamese kids, who he said never had anything.

He wanted the entire U.S. 1st Infantry Division band out under the rubber trees playing "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas." He wanted Santa Claus to enter on a sled — really an artillery shell dolly — pulled by six water buffalo.

He wanted electric trains under the yule tree and a big star over his mess tent and enough dolls and balloons and kites and cowboy guns to send every kid back to the village of Ben Cat with his eyes bulging, the way it was with him when he was a kid at Christmas.

He was on his way back from seeing about some more decorations and fattening up a pig when it happened.

S. Sgt. Arthur N. McMellon of West Hamlin, W. Va., the "greatest scrounger in Viet Nam," as his company commander proudly called him, was killed by the Viet Cong from ambush outside Ben Cat while doing the thing he loved best: scrounging up the makings of the greatest Christmas party ever held in any war zone.

The men in Charlie Company, 701st Maintenance Battalion, milled around Friday decorating the tree, filling paper bags with toys and trying not to think about Sgt. Mac, but his presence was everywhere.

Capt. Cosmo Barone of Oxford, Pa., the company commander, was on a field phone sewing up the division band, just as Sgt. Mac had planned it.

"Of course they got to bring their weapons with them," he shouted. "What are they going to do if we're overrun? Beat them off with their clarinets?"

First Sgt. Clarence Stanley of Decatur, Ala., set up the Christmas tree on a sandbag bunker outside the mess tent, wondering how he could hook up the electric trains. And where would be ever get those water buffalo?

Parents Of Astronaut Proud Of Son

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Borman; their son, Frank, will be command pilot inside the Gemini 7 capsule.

"We both feel wonderful," said the astronaut's gray-haired father. "We sure are proud of our son."

"We're real excited," agreed Mom. "I have great confidence and think it's going to be a wonderful thing for Frank. I hope it can go the full 14 days and everything turns out just right."

The Bormans flew to Cape Kennedy from their home in Phoenix, Ariz., so they could watch their boy blast off on the longest manned space adventure yet undertaken.

For the Borman clan, its's family day.

"My sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson, who live at Far Hills, N.J., are coming," Frank's mother said.

The astronaut's blonde and beautiful wife, Susan, and his two sons, Frederick, 14, and Edwin, 12, also flew to Cape Kennedy to observe the launch. Susan's mother, Ruth Bugbee, of Tucson, Ariz., also will be on hand.

White Buy-In Planned

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George Singelmann, executive secretary of the Greater New Orleans Citizens Council, said Friday plans were under way for a white "buy - in" at Natchez, Miss., to counter the effects of a Negro boycott.

He said the council was urging white persons from throughout Louisiana and Mississippi to go to Natchez on Dec. 11 for a "selective" buying drive, making purchases only from the merchants who were boycotted by Negroes.

Natchez Negro leaders announced Friday they were ending their long boycott against most stores.

Singelmann said many of the merchants were seriously affected by the boycott, and the buy-in was to "alleviate the suffering of those merchants."

Attempt Made To Find Reasons For Blackout

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Power technicians worked Friday to learn what went wrong with a natural gas regulator that triggered an electrical blackout in the El Paso and southern New Mexico area.

At the same time, area power officials worked harder on a study designed to eliminate such outages, started after the Nov. 9 Northeast United States blackout.

Nearly one million persons were affected by Thursday night's power failure. While military bases and others with auxiliary power were affected only briefly, some areas were without electricity for about two hours.

El Paso Electric Co. spokesmen said the outage was the result of a malfunction in equipment which regulates the flow of natural gas to burners under their Newman, Tex., plant boilers. The boilers heat water for steam to turn the plant turbines.

The loss of heat resulted in a shutdown at the Newman plant which was conducting about 186,000 kilowatts of power at the time, a statement from the company said. The company's other plant was producing 139,000 kilowatts of power.

When the larger plant failed, the smaller system was unable to pick the power up to meet the estimated area demand of about 175,000 kilowatts. The resulting surge through interconnecting lines knocked out or affected systems of other producers.

In El Paso to help determine what went wrong with the regulator were Federal Power Commission engineers J.R. Johnson and Donald L. Martin of Fort Worth, Tex., and Louis W. Mendonsa, deputy chief of the U.S. Bureau of Natural Gas.

New Mexico Public Service Commission Chairman Joe Bursey said the commission still was receiving data from the Northeast power failure, for its own preventive study, when the El Paso system failed.

"It was only a couple of years ago that we were told something like the Northeast power failure couldn't happen — even if an atomic bomb fell in the area," Bursey said Friday.

That it could happen again was confirmed by a spokesman for Public Service Co. of New Mexico.

"It's always possible to have a failure such as this, no matter what people might say," he said. "Anytime there is a mechanical piece of equipment involved in the system, there is this possibility."

He defended the power pool arrangement involving El Paso Eelectric Co., saying that without it, "there is no telling when El Paso might have had power back."

The New Mexico system fed power into the El Paso area to help restore service.

War In Viet Nam Destined To Grow Bigger With Collapse Of Peace Effort

WASHINGTON, (AP) —With the collapse of another peace effort, the war in Viet Nam is destined to grow bigger and more dangerous.

The United States is expected to undertake large-scale air strikes against the "Ho Chi Minh trail" in southern Laos in an effort to frustrate attempts by North Viet Nam to reinforce Communist forces in South Viet Nam.

A further heavy buildup of U.S. troops in South Viet Nam also is regarded as necessary to the strategy of dealing crippling blows to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese fighting in the South.

Decisions on U.S. actions are expected at a meeting of President Johnson with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other advisers, probably next week.

McNamara returned several days ago from a flying visit to South Viet Nam and laid heavy emphasis on the prospect that North Viet Nam would shortly triple its infiltration of troops into the South—from 1,500 a month to 4,500.

Officials say most of them must pass through the jungle-covered roads and pathways of southern Laos, the network making up the so-called Ho Chi Minh trail.

Bombing this route will more openly involve the territory of Laos in the conflict which the United States has always treated as basically a fight between Communist North Viet Nam and anti-Communist south Viet Nam.

This involvement creates new elements of danger but officials assert the initiative was taken long ago by the North Vietnamese in using Laos territory.

The latest peace mission collapse caused no surprise here. British Foreign Minister Michael Stewart had appealed for the Soviet Union to join Britain in calling a conference to settle the conflict.

After talking with President Johnson, Rusk said in Texas that the United States would of course go to such a conference.

But Stewart said in Moscow Friday he has detected no change in the Soviet attitude. U.S. officials said they likewise see no change.

The Soviet position is that it does not have the power to end the war which is a primary responsibility of North Viet Nam.

The Soviet ambassador to the United Nations renewed assertions that the United States is guilty of aggression in Viet Nam and in Laos as well.

In a speech to the U.N. Main Political Committee, Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko said Moscow supports fully the demands of North Viet Nam for withdrawal of American troops and will continue to provide political and military support to the Communist North.

The Soviet Union is giving some help to North Viet Nam, but Red China is giving much more. U.S. experts say the Soviet Union undoubtedly would like to end the war but that Red China is determined to keep it going and so is the dominant faction in North Viet Nam.

Some students of Chinese affairs are beginning to say that as the war expands there is increasing danger of a direct clash between Red China and the United States.

The dominant view in the government is that neither Red China nor the United States wants war with the other, nor is it felt circumstances are likely to arise which would cause either country to act contrary to its major interests.

Goldberg's Ambitions

Some substance to one noted columnist's report that President Johnson promised Arthur Goldberg a chance at the vice-presidency is found in the fact that Goldberg, now ambassador to the United Nations, hobnobbed recently with several of the nation's most politically influential labor leaders.

Victor Riesel, columnist, whose way of writing about labor affairs caused him to be the victim of a blinding acid attack a good many years ago, has given what he thinks is the route Goldberg will choose in his drive for the vice-presidency and eventually the presidency. We see a shorter route for Goldberg in view of the promise reportedly made by Johnson but, aside from that, Riesel's reasoning looks logical enough.

With Goldberg at the small party in the Waldorf Hotel in New York were Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers of America, counted by many to be the most powerful labor leader in the nation; Garment and Hat Workers Presidents Dave Dubinsky and Alex Rose, who double as leaders of New York's Liberal Party, and a newsman.

Insiders immediately speculated that Goldberg was readying some political action as another move in his spectacular and varied career. Nothing of this developed at the meeting but Goldberg's palsy-walsy meeting with the top labor leaders was not counted as love's labor lost.

Some observers were convinced that the ambassador is interested in running for the United States Senate in New York against Republican Senator Jacob Javits in 1968 and that his eventual aim is the vice-presidency of the United States.

Many influential Democrats on national and state levels, as well as key labor leaders and liberals, believe Goldberg is the only man who can halt the sweep of the pivotal state by the liberal Republican coalition of recently-elected New York Mayor John Lindsay, Senator Javits and Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller. Insiders see a draft movement to persuade Goldberg to run against Javits.

If he should do that and should be elected, the two Senate posts will have been switched from the Republican to the Democratic column, since Robert Kennedy was elected a New York Senator in the last election, in which he defeated Republican Senator Kenneth Keating.

Thus, the pundits figure, Goldberg would be running on the same ticket with President Johnson and the President would be running with Goldberg, who would bear the labels of Mr. Labor Lawyer, Mr. Secretary of Labor, Mr. Supreme Court Justice, Mr. Ambassador and Mr. Senator.

Riesel pointed out that at the moment there are the Johnsonian Democrats who love the liberals but not Robert Kennedy. There are the liberals who gave Lindsay a balance-of-power vote, who still love the Johnsonian Democrats but not Robert Kennedy nor the older, traditional machine Democrats. There is the powerful figure of Kennedy who bucked the liberals who loved Lindsay in the recent climactic mayoralty race.

Observers see one man who can be the mediator, the ambassador to all such forces — Goldberg. He is an intimate of President Johnson. He has been close to Robert Kennedy since the days he swung the labor leaders into line for the late President John F. Kennedy and away from Adlai Stevenson in 1960. His friends think he can defeat Javits in 1968.

All of this sounds smoother than huge quantities of oil on troubled waters. But there is one big catch. Johnson will be running for his second term in 1968. Unless there is a change in the Constitution, he will not be eligible to run again in 1972, since that would project his term of office beyond the 10-year maximum now allotted for a President.

Goldberg's big chance for the vice-presidency is in 1968. Johnson can name him as his running mate in that year if he chooses — and he is said to have made such a promise. There seems hardly the slightest doubt that Johnson will be re-elected. If Goldberg could make the vice-presidency in 1968, he would be ready for the race for the presidency in 1972. Why should he wait?

'Anti-Freeze' In People

In this age of space flight and space medicine, the "side effects," now a lively topic of discussion on almost any subject, are certain to play a big part. For many of us, who don't expect to leave the earth by our own volition, the side effects may prove of far greater interest and value than the other space discoveries.

Writing in the Emory University Quarterly, Austin Smith, M.D., said:

"Drugs of the future will be better tolerated by patients and will act with greater specificity.

"In the field of radiology, new agents will facilitate x-ray diagnostic procedures of the brain.

"Space medicine research promises to bring a beneficial fall-out of drugs for use in vestibular malfunctions, protection from harmful radiation and reduction in fatigue.

"Other exotic areas of research may produce compounds that offer protection from extreme heat and others from extreme cold. A pill that would repel insects is another possibility.

"The future of drug research was never brighter. The results will add to man's longevity and will reduce the discomfort, suffering and disability of disease."

Some of the planets man now hopes to explore have temperatures vastly hotter and colder than anything known on this earth. If the medical profession or other scientists can develop an "anti-freeze" pill for man, there is no telling how intense the cold might become without causing him any discomfort. Possibly the same thing can be accomplished in making man heat-proof. Such things as these stretch the imagination but it has been said that anything man can imagine, he can achieve.

We don't know how far the heat-immunity achievement might reach into the hereafter.

Eating Mushrooms

Mushrooms "make pretty good eating" — if you like them. They have a certain kind of taste that is not imitated in any other kind of food. But who would want to risk this life for such a taste?

That is what an American Medical Association news release said you are doing if you eat wild mushrooms. Its warning:

"Don't eat wild mushrooms. Repeat — Don't eat wild mushrooms."

Only an expert can tell whether the wild mushroom or "toad stool" is one of the tasty, safe varieties or is one of those that are dangerous and possibly deadly. There are not many real experts and even the experts are sometimes fooled, some of the varieties are so much alike.

So, if you see any of those beautiful wild mushrooms growing in the field or in your yard, whether the slimy or smooth variety, leave them for the toads to sit on. And, if you must eat mushrooms, buy them in a can.

Plan To Axe Donaho Blocked

Sea Service Chief's Economies Upheld

THE MILITARY Sea Transportation Service, which spends tens of millions annually on government shipping, almost lost its highly competent commander — and therein lies an intriguing tale of thwarted connivery.

Navy authorities are self-righteously denying it, but backstage indications leave little doubt that Vice Admiral Glynn Donaho, efficiency - and economy-minded head of MSTS, was on the verge of being axed — until an influential senator abruptly intervened and blocked it.

He is Senator Paul Douglas, D-Ill., crusading chairman of the Federal Procurement & Regulations Subcommittee, whose principal function is to keep an eye on "military waste."

Douglas has a high regard for Donaho's courage, ability and effectiveness. Following a series of public hearings on military shipping costs, Douglas' subcommittee recommended drastic tightening up of competitive bidding requirements. Donaho promptly and forcefully complied.

As a consequence, MSTS saved $6.6 million in government shipping costs the first half of this year, estimates a saving of more than $10 million for the full year.

This economizing has aroused considerable resentment among certain shippers.

Recently staff investigators of Douglas' committee got wind of a hush-hush move to get rid of Donaho.

The investigators reported that a closely-guarded memorandum had been submitted to Navy Secretary Paul Nitze and Defense Secretary McNamara listing 18 complaints against the resolute MSTS commander.

Main charge was that he had "antagonized the shipping industry."

According to the probers' information, the mysterious memorandum emanated from the office of Navy Undersecretary Robert Baldwin — former partner in Morgan, Stanley & Co., big Wall Street bankers, who was appointed last July.

TORPEDOING THE PLOT — Senator Douglas acted fast and hard.

In letters to Secretaries McNamara and Nitze, the combat-disabled World War II Marine veteran warmly lauded Donaho, bluntly warned against easing him out, and announced that his committee was preparing to hold public hearings when Congress reconvenes next month.

The two Pentagon leaders lost no time in earnestly assuring Douglas "that there are no plans in being for removing Donaho or reorganizing him out of his present position."

Highlights of this revealing exchange of letters are as follows:

Douglas to Secretary McNamara: "I have word that Vice Admiral Glynn Donaho, commander of the Military Sea Transportation Service, is being removed or reorganized out of his present position. I cannot tell you what a tremendous mistake this would be. My subcommittee has gone deeply into the matter of military freight rates and freight rates in general. We have found there a wasteful situation, one in which the public interests has almost universally been ignored.

"Admiral Donaho is one of the few men who has saved the government large sums of money and who has acted in a courageous manner. That he would now be under attack because he has 'antagonized the shipping industry' is an amazing situation. He should have a medal. I cannot tell you how strongly I hope that you and your department will stand behind this courageous officer. In my judgment, he is doing the very thing which you and I have fought for over the past five years."

Secretary Nitze, writing for himself and McNamara: "I am in full accord with the sentiments that you expressed concerning the outstanding manner in which Admiral Donaho has carried out his responsibilities, and I am happy to assure you that there are no plans in being for removing him or reorganizing him out of his present position. I am confident that when our subcommittee holds its hearings in the next session of Congress, Admiral Donaho will be available to testify."

UNEXPECTED COMMENDATION — Defense Secretary McNamara credits Senator Paul Douglas, D-Ill., chairman of the Federal Procurement & Regulations Subcommittee, with playing an important role in the billions saved through Pentagon economizing. Said McNamara in a statement to the subcommittee, "The goal set in 1961 was to save $3.4 billion per year by fiscal 1968. However, the Department exceeded this in 1963, and a new goal of $4.8 billion was set. This has long been one of the policies you (Douglas) have advocated. You have pointed out a number of ways in which this could be accomplished. We have borrowed and stolen ideas from you to put this economizing into effect." . . . For a man who says he still hasn't made up his mind whether he will run for re-election next year, Senator Douglas is doing a great deal of stumping. Since the adjournment of Congress in October, he has covered every county in Illinois and is making as many as six speeches a day.

Britain Won't Jump As United States Did

OUR PROMPT response to Great Britain's appeal for a boycott of Rhodesia — whether you agree wtih the boycott or not— highlights the failure of Great Britain and most of our allies to respond with similar good faith when it is our fat, not theirs, that is in the fire.

Just look at the difference. When Great Britain said jump, we just asked "how high?" Our rejection of Rhodesian sugar shipments, even when those shipments were on the high seas, was so prompt that it almost preceded the request.

On the other hand, we have been trying to get our friends, Great Britain included, to cut off supplies to and sales from Cuba ever since the missile crisis — a crisis, incidentally, which threatened the entire world and not just the climate of one section of one continent, as with Rhodesia.

What has been the result of our pleas in regard to Cuba? British exports to Cuba rose from about $6 million worth in 1963 to a husky $27 million worth last year. Our other allies have done just about the same.

FRANCE'S TRADE with Cuba jumped from $4 million to $49 million worth in the same period. Canada went from $15 to $57 million, Japan from $3 to $34 million.

Free - world ships made 76 calls or Cuban ports in the first four months of this year. Of that number, 33 were by British ships, according to records on file at the U.S. Maritime Administration.

In the past two years, there have been 844 free-world trips to Cuban ports, some 40 per cent by ships flying the British flag.

Even harder to take at this bloody time in our history are the free-world ships, particularly ships of Great Britain, which have been carrying cargoes to the ports of North Viet Nam. No matter what the cargoes comprise, they are aiding the Vietnamese war effort. In short, they are helping to kill American soldiers in the field — and Australian soldiers as well.

REP. PAUL ROGERS (D-Fla.) has charged that in the last half of last year alone a total of 201 free-world ships, almost half British, carried Communist cargoes into North Vietnamese ports.

Beyond helping haul the goods of war and other supporting material into North Viet Nam — to the hands of the free-world's active enemies, to the men who are killing free-world soldiers— various of our allies are trading directly with North Viet Nam. The figures are not huge, but they are significant for a wartime situation such as this—just as significant as trading with Japan and Germany on Dec. 6, 1941.

France last year exported about $2.5 million worth of goods to North Viet Nam and expects to do about as well this year. Italy and Germany also have sold to the Vietnamese at an annual rate of better than $1 million each.

The Rhodesian boycott raises many immediate questions of reciprocity in this matter of economic warfare and about the relationship of our policies with those of our allies. Above all it raises the very serious question of how well we share common purposes these days.

So far it seems a sadly one-way street.

"And Samuel grew and the Lord was with him, and did let none of His words fall to the ground." 1 Samuel 3:19

The man who identifies himself with God will have something to say and an audience to listen. The Lord's still looking for dedicated instruments through which he can speak His word and live out His life.

"There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." Joshua 1:5

RALPH de TOLEDANO

Soviet 'Space Walk' Labeled Huge Hoax

EVER SINCE the first Sputnik, "official" American scientists and their academic colleagues have accepted at face value and with no proof the claims of Soviet propagandists. At the same time, they have turned with a kind of repressed fury on those who present a prima facie case against the Kremlin's claims. In this they have aided the Soviets and allowed them to convince the world that they are far ahead of the United States in space exploration.

The latest of these Communist bargain - basement achievements was accepted without a qualm by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. It has taken Lloyd Mallan, one of the nation's foremost science writers, to expose the "walk in space" of Cosmonaut Alexi Leonov as what he calls "the most audacious hoax in history."

Mr. Mallan operates on the principle that any claim, particularly one made by the Academy of Sciences of the U.S.S.R. must be thoroughly examined before it is accepted. He has applied this rule to other Soviet adventures in space, much to the irritation of America's scientific community which deplores his activities if only because it shows up its methodological sloppiness. Even before all the evidence is in, therefore, it has tried to discredit Mr. Mallan's findings.

NOW WHAT DID he discover that so enrages our scientists? Nothing that simple logic and ordinary caution would not have disclosed.

It will be recalled that the Soviets offered the world "films" and stills of Cosmonaut Leonov's expedition outside his capsule and into space. One of the still photos showed Leonov crawling out of his hatch for the walk in space. But who took that picture? According to the official Soviet account, the other cosmonaut was sealed in his airtight compartment throughout the space journey. He could not have taken the still photo. Again according to the account, the only camera outside the space ship was one he himself attached after he had left the spacecraft. For the picture released by the Soviets to have been genuine, some third agent would have had to be in outer space to snap the shutter.

But this is only the beginning. Mr. Mallan borrowed the Russian color film and had it analyzed at the Rochester Institute of Technology by nine professors and at Cape Kennedy by experts in photography and optics. These experts discovered, Mr. Mallan reports in an article for Science and Mechanics, that the film was "double printed, which means that the foreground (Leonov) was superimposed on the background (the Earth below).

This is a trick often used by Hollywood studios to achieve special effects. But they do it less clumsily: the Russian film showed reflections from the glass plate under which a double print is made."

EXPERTS ALSO noted that the black and white stills of Leonov were photographed in a tank of water, to simulate floating or lack of gravity. The face-plate on Leonov's space helmet was clear and his face could easily be seen. This means that he was completely unprotected from the "violent radiations" in space. The American astronaut, Ed White, was protected by a filter which transmits only 10 per cent of the light and his face could not be distinguished in the photos taken of him.

Comparing the films and the still photos, Mr. Mallan noticed that they contradicted one another. If the films were genuine, the photos were faked — and vice versa. A report by Time magazine that radar of the North American Air Defense Command had picked up Leonov when he moved away from his space ship proved to be erroneous.

In the Science and Mechanics article, the first of three, Mr. Mallan cites numerous other instances to prove his point that the pictures of the "walk in space" were faked. He further quotes from tape recordings of the comments of the experts who were shown the film. The most significant and spontaneous comment came from Dean C. B. Neblette at Rochester.

"They had to make this film before they had seen any other pictures of a man walking out in space — so if they were going to fake it, they had to do a lot of guessing."

It was Mr. Mallan who presented considerable evidence that the Soviet picture of the dark side of the moon was a painting rather than a photo. This did not win him any friends at NASA — nor has this series. I intend to read the next installments and will report on them.

HENRY TAYLOR

Economically, Russia Is Desperately Poor

RUSSIA'S SPACE flights help fix the great Soviet hoax firmly in the minds of the American people. The truth reaches us piecemeal but the basic fact, disguised by the scientific glamour, (and competence) is that Russia is a poor, desperately poor, country.

Experts in the performing arts agree the Russians have always been magnificent showmen. The Slavic knack for the spectacular is as much a part of the Soviet Union as borsch. But every thoughtful study shows the country will remain a have-not nation as far ahead as any man can see.

In East Berlin I studied the Red government's own economic figures. Looking at satellite Germany from the living standard of the West looks bad, and it is bad. The East German standard of living is 30 per cent lower than that of West Germany. But when you look at East Germany from the U. S. S. R., it's a paradise. By Moscow's own figures the East German living standard there is 30 per cent higher than it is in the Soviet Union.

AS ONE RESULT, the prize assignment in the Russian Army today is to be sent to East Germany. What we regard as a desert is a reward billet from the Russian viewpoint, and the cream of the crop in the Red Army is there — 300,000 strong.

Soviet tourists on organized visits, too, commonly state, "We never had it so good." Only its strings with Moscow keep the East German government from playing up this fact to the East Germans.

Soviet economist Abel G. Aganbegyan, in turn, who heads the Laboratory of Economics-Mathematical Studies, created his own well - known controversy by announcing that Russia's agricultural growth rate in the past six years has declined from eight per cent to below one per cent and that the growth rate of her employment as a whole has fallen two - thirds.

Unemployment has increased constantly and with alarming rapidity in the past two years. It runs from about eight per cent in big cities to 25 per cent in medium-sized towns.

This is confirmed even by Soviet Deputy Premier Veniamin E. Dymshits, Chairman of the State Committee for Material and Technical Supply, the central agency that distributes industrial goods throughout the U. S. S. R.

EVERY INDEX in the Kremlin's current Seven - Year Plan has fallen, not risen. Only a few new dents have been made in the immense, chronic housing shortage and these (spectacular) chiefly in the capital cities. The standard of living for vast numbers outside such concentrated centers as Moscow, Leningrad, Minsk, Kiev, etc., has gone steadily, relentlessly down. No greater mistake can be made by an American visitor than to think these showcase places are typical of the U. S. S. R.

State Planning Commission Chairman Nikolai K. Baibakov, for his part, has dissolved the enormous administrative unit known as the "Virgin Lands Territory" project. This involved plowing up virgin lands in Kazakhstan, Western Siberia, the Urals and the Volga regions. It spread across an area as large as California, Arizona and Colordo combined.

Moscow designed the program to cure the grain shortage and as a future home for millions of extra citizens. But the steadily decreasing grain yields from the uprooted soil, culminating in the 1963-64 crop debacle, forecast the tremendous mistake.

TODAY MOST of the terrain is a dust bowl. The effect is about as incongruous as the great tsar bell of the Kremlin with its jagged hole. Food riots, entirely kept out of the domestic and foreign press, are about the only results.

Meanwhile, the general agricultural failures have cost the bulk of Russia's gold reserve. She has an unfavorable foreign trade balance year after year, and thus a continuous balance-of-payments problem, that simply will not support her free world food purchases.

Soviet Union Launches Fourth Moon Probe

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched on Friday its fourth attempt this year to land an instrument package softly on the moon and take a major stride ahead of the United States in the race to put a man there.

If all goes well, the first soft lunar landing in history should take place around midnight Moscow time — 4 p.m. EST — Monday, when American astronauts are scheduled to be orbiting the earth in the Gemini 7 capsule.

The unmanned Soviet space station, Luna No. 8, loaded with scientific equipment, weighted slightly more than earlier Soviet moon probes this year, 3,421.5 pounds.

The difference in weight could be due to refinements in the soft-landing system following three unsuccessful tests earlier this year. Luna No. 5 and Luna No. 7 crashed on the moon. Luna No. 6 missed the moon by 100,000 miles.

An official announcement said the main purposes of Luna No. 8 were "further refinement of the elements of a soft lunar landing and scientific studies."

CAMPAIGN GOAL
$284934
$242,293

LOOKING OVER totals of the United Givers Fund campaign at a report meeting Friday are, from left, Sebron M. Sneed, Monroe advance gifts chairman; Marcus Mapp, public relations chairman; Wilber Keko, Sterlington area chairman; J. C. "Mose" Loftin, general chairman, and Buddy Harrelson, West Monroe area chairman. The drive has reached 85 per cent of the goal which has been set at $284,934.

Fund Total For United Givers Up

An extended drive for the 1965 - 66 has netted an increase of 10 per cent of the overall goal of the United Givers Fund locally since the official closeout of the drive, workers indicated Friday.

Reports issued Friday said 85 per cent of the $284,934 goal had been reached, totaling $242,293.

General campaign chairman J. C. "Mose" Loftin, at the noon report session, thanked volunteers for their "extra effort" of the past week, noting that "there's still a long way to go."

Loftin called on the volunteers to wind up the drive as soon as possible.

Donors may mail their contributions to the fund at Box 900, Monroe.

Reports showed these totals and percentages collected in the campaign's separate sections:

Monroe area — $158,878, or 80.8 per cent of a $196,477 quota; West Monroe area — $54,051, or 94.5 per cent of a $57,051 quota; professional and individual gifts—$24,179, or 93.5 per cent of a $25,842 quota; and Sterlington area—$5,185 or 95.5 per cent of a $5,425 quota.

Five Filings On Business In Area Noted

Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr., announced from his Baton Rouge office Friday that five filings affecting businesses in northeast Louisiana have been received in his office.

The filings were received during the period of Nov. 17-23.

Three domestic charters, a domestic amendment and a notice of dissolution were included.

Domestic charters were for Twin City Remodeling Company, Inc., 603 Bres Ave., Monroe, $1,000 capital; AGG Air Service, Inc., Rt. 3, Winnsboro, $2,000; and the Great Drive Inn, Inc., Municipal No. 304 Medora Dr., West Monroe, $10,000.

Domestic amendment filed was for the Monroe Sand and Gravel Co., Inc., Monroe, increasing the capital stock to $500,000.

Notice of dissolution was for the D'Arbonne Insurance Agency, Inc., of Farmerville.

Johnson's Condition Said Good

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson got a complete physical examination Friday and his physician reported he was "quite satisfied" with what he found.

After the thumpings and soundings by Dr. George G. Burkley, a Navy (ie) admiral, acting press secretary Joseph Laitin told newsmen:

"Dr. Burkley assured me that everything was well within what he called normal range."

The examination, Laitin said, included the President's throat, chest, lungs, abdomen, heart, and a blood pressure check.

Departing from Burkley's report to volunteer one of his own, Laitin said, "After talking to the President, I would say he seems to be feeling fine."

Johnson still is recuperating from his Oct. 8 gall bladder-kidney stone operation.

Dr. Burkley found, Laitin related, that "the area of the surgical incision has healed nicely and the scar, to quote Dr. Burkley, is in excellent condition."

But when Johnson makes a sudden turn, Laitin said, he still "gets a twinge from muscle sensitivity."

Johnson's present weight of 190 to 195 pounds is just right in Burkley's opinion. He wants it kept there. This is the lightest weight reported for Johnson since he became President. Before his operation he topped 220 pounds.

Johnson plans to watch the Gemini 7 launching today at Cape Kennedy, Fla., on television. Ambassadors from 78 countries may watch it on the scene as his guests.

In tow of presidential assistant Jack Valenti, the ambassadors will be flown from Washington in Johnson's jet transport.

All chiefs of mission were invited to make the trip, but Yugoslavia was the only Communist country to accept, Laitin said.

Among officials in Washington with whom Johnson talked by phone Friday was McGeorge Bundy, presidential assistant for national security affairs.

Laitin said Johnson reviewed with Bundy "a good many national security matters," and that the President asked Bundy to provide him with a "study in depth" of the current situation on each continent.

—Signed an order to permit full hazard pay for paratroopers in Viet Nam even though, because of involvement in ground fighting, they fail to get in the required jump every three months.

The order, recommended by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, authorized commanding officers to waive the old requirement when airborne troops are in combat.

The incentive bonus for enlisted men is $55 a month, for officers $110.

"This is a situation that called for prompt corrective action," Johnson said in a statement.

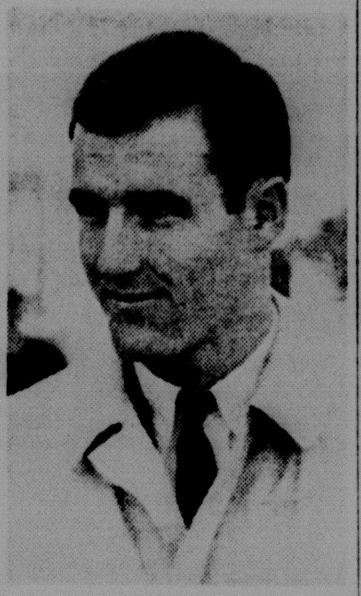
Affected are the 173rd Airborne Brigade, a brigade from the 101st Airbone and paratroopers of the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division.

Death Penalty Ordered For Robber-Slayer

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A federal court jury today ordered Duane E. Pope, a college football star turned killer, to pay with his life for a bloody Big Springs, Neb., bank robbery six months ago.

Judge Robert Van Pelt, ordered Pope executed in the electric chair on March 3, 1966 at 11:30 a.m.

Spurned by the jury of 10 men and two women was a defense contention that the mild-mannered 22-year-old Roxbury, Kan., farm youth was insane when he shot four bank employes in the back and neck, killing three, as they lay on the bank floor.



DUANE E. POPE

The June 4 blood letting at the Farmers State Bank in a western Nebraska wheat country village of 510 occurred just five days after Pope was graduated from McPherson (Kan.) College as a football co-captain and an all-conference end.

The jury received the case at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday to conclude a month-long trial, and returned its verdict at 4:38 p.m. today after approximately 14 hours of actual deliberation.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pope, Roxbury, Kan., the parents of Duane, sat in the front row of the federal court room as the verdict was pronounced.

The elder Pope, a large man in a rumpled blue suit, put his arm around Mrs. Pope as she buried her face in a handkerchief.

At one point she sobbed out loud.

Duane Pope was brought before Judge Van Pelt to hear sentence pronounced. As he got up he buttoned his gray herringbone jacket and wore the same apparent slight smile that has characterized him through his trial.

When Judge Van Pelt asked him if he had anything to say, Pope's chief attorney, former Nebraska governor Robert Crosby, looked up at Pope and said that there was nothing to be said.

When the judge asked if this were the case, Pope said: "yes sir."

Stock Market Posts Gain On Average

NEW YORK (AP) — Strength in autos and in a scattering of key stocks enabled the stock market to post a gain on average Friday, but more stocks declined than advanced in the over-all market.

The general pattern was the same that has prevailed all week — a confused one permeated by earlier-than-usual yearend transactions such as tax-loss selling,switching, profit taking and re-investment.

News that November new-car sales were far above previous records for the month gave ample justification for the advance of auto stocks, but they responded to the news without any great excitement and with some pause for reflection.

President Johnson's prediction of another record year for the economy in 1966 also produced no particular celebration. Wall Street seems to have become accustomed to the idea that business is good and has prospects of remaining so.

While trading was active, it was the lightest this week. Volume was 8.16 million shares.

The Dow Jones industrial av- of the Dow Jones averages nudged to another record high.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .6 to 353.3 with industrials up .5, rails up .5 to a high for the year and utilities up .7.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which represents about 85 per cent of the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, rose .06 to 91.27.

Of 1,415 issues traded, losers outnumbers gainers by 599 to 554. New highs for the year totaled 81 and new lows 38.

Nine of the 15 most active stocks rose and five fell, with American Motors unchanged.

Electric & Musical Industries was the most active stock for the second straight day, easing ⅛ to 5 on 259,900 shares as profits were taken on its gain of ⅞ the previous day.

Among the moderate-priced stocks, outstanding favorites among the volume leaders were Dymo Industries, 70 2⅛ at 17¾, Curtiss Wright, up 1¾ at 25¾ and Certain-Teed, up 1⅞ at 23⅛.

Also among the most-active stocks was General Dynamics which erased a loss and posted a net gain of 2¾ at 60¼ on news that the company has been told to proceed with the development of a reconnaissance version of the F-111 aircraft.

An interesting feature was Cyprus Mines, recently admitted to trading on the Big Board. It rose 4 to 52½ following a gain of 5⅜ Thursday. The company's chairman described as premature rumors of large, commercially exploitable minerals on its property in the Yukon.

Eversharp said it was introducing a new stainless steel razor blade and the stock rose 1¼ to 23.

Radio Corp. Raised its dividend. After an initial spurt of about a point on the news, the stock settled back to a net loss of ¾.

Baxter Laboratories proposed a 2-for-1 split and raised dividend and the issue advanced ⅞.

Despite a report that Motorola plans to expand its color television manufacturing faculities, the stock fell 1¾.

IBM, which lost 26½ points in the previous three sessions, was weak at the start, losing another 7¼ as it plunged to a low of 494¼, but it recovered to post a net gain of 5 at 506½.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 3.86 million shares. Asamera Oil was active and up ¼ at 2 5-16. Oak Electronetics gained 1¼. Syntex fell 4½ and Western Equities 2.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were irregularly lower.

MEMPHIS COTTON

Spot cotton trading on the Memphis market increased slightly from Thursday. Reported purchases Friday totaled 27640 bales compared with 26762 bales Thursday. Demand was mostly for low middling and lower qualities needed for current shipments. Foreign mill interest was light. Domestic mill buying decreased. Most activity on the market is filling shipments needed under prior commitments.

Memphis quoted middling 1 1-16 inch cotton at 31.75 and strict low middling 1 1-32 inch cotton at 28.25 cents per pound.

Grain Prices Drift Into A Weakness

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices drifted into general weakness in the grain futures market as demand eased and profit taking for the weekend increased.

In the early afternoon losses ranged to a cent a bushel in wheat, corn and rye and to two cents in soybeans. Brokers said commercial buying was rather light and scattered and that speculators had become cautious after the advances of the three previous days.

The only export business reported was a moderate amount of soybeans. One analyst expressed belief other commercial buyers may be waiting further declines.

Wheat finished ¼ cent a bushel lower to ⅜ higher, December $1.63; corn ⅛ lower to ¾ higher, December $1.21⅛-21; oats ⅜ lower to ¼ higher, December 71¼ cents; rye ¼ to ½ lower; December $1.20⅝; soybeans ¼ to 1 cent lower, January $2.62¾-63.

Sid Jones Provides Another Jinx For Oak Grove Tigers In Playoffs

Southpaw Quarterback Drops Bengals, 19-14

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

OAK GROVE — If you want to laugh at so-called "jinxes" don't go to Oak Grove to do it. You might not be given much of a chance to laugh.

For the third straight year, Coach Woody Boyles' Oak Grove Tigers have reached the state class A football playoffs and then came face-to-face "left-handed" jinx in the form of an outstanding southpaw quarterback for the opposing club.

Oak Grove's jinx this year goes by the name of Sid Jones and the powerful running 190-pound signal caller carried Landry of Lake Charles to a pulsating 19-14 quarter-final victory in the finest "jinx" style.

In 1963, Oak Grove reached the semi-finals before Amite's Butch Nixon ruined the Tigers 39-7 and last year Lockport's lefty, Mike Hillman, was the difference in a 26-13 state final contest.

Jones was simply unstoppable against Oak Grove. Running for 125 yards on 27 carries, the young bull rammed for all three Landry touchdowns on runs of five, 11 and three yards, and did his share of holding Oak Grove to 35 yards rushing from his linebacker post.

However, it took all Jones could come up with to halt the never-say-die 2A champions.

After falling behind 19-14 on Jones' third touchdown of the night, a three-yard burst off left guard with just 6:12 left in the game, Oak Grove roared back in five plays on the strength of a 46 yard scoring pass from Jim Boyles to Harvey Hemphill and cut the gap to five points.

Then with 3:00 to play, Oak Grove linebacker Don Parker fell on a Landry fumble at the Oak Grove 49 and Oak Grove got one last chance.

Boyles threw incomplete, then hit Hemphill with a flare pass that picked up a first down to the Landry 41 and followed this with a screen to Hemphill, picking up three to the 38. However, here the end of a tremendous season for Oak Grove came to a halt.

Twice Boyles passed to end Mike Pollard in the clear, but each time it fell away incomplete — and Oak Grove gave up the ball to Landry which ran out the clock with no trouble.

	Oak Grove	Landry
Yards rushing	35	254
First downs	5	17
Yards passing	163	0
Passes (A-C)	17-6	3-0
Had intercepted	0	1
Punts-avg.	4-29.5	2-30.5
Fumbles-lost	0-0	2-1
Penalties-lost	3-37	2-20

The Tigers finished with a 10-2 mark and possessing its first district title in the school's 43 year history.

Just as expected, the contest turned into an almost personal duel between Jones and Boyles. And both quarterbacks lived up to expectations.

But the final analysis showed one big difference: Jones was able to get a little more help from his line.

While Jones was clearing the line wide open on many occasions and then romping over and around Oak Grove's small defensive backs, Boyles wasn't having near as much fun against the Landry defense.

Although the brilliant Boyles managed to complete six of 17 passes, against the charging defense, good for 163 yards and both Oak Grove touchdowns, he was smothered six times for losses mounting up to 40 yards.

Still the 193-pound senior, who has amassed amazing pass statistics for the past four years here, failed to lose his poise and throw the wild pass that would have probably ended in an interception.

In fact, no less than three times he found men behind the Landry secondary only to have the pass fall incomplete off the fingertips of his receivers.

With only three minutes gone in the game, Boyles had Oak Grove on the scoreboard.

Kicking off to Landry and forcing the visitors to punt, Oak Grove took over on its 43. Boyles picked up two yards on first downs, then stepped back and connected with David Butler all alone at the Landry 30 and the speedy halfback raced over untouched. Boyles then kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

But Landry came right back with its second longest drive of the night to narrow the margin to 7-6.

With Jones and fullback Benny Davoi, who was not expected to play because of a heel injury, running swiftly and powerfully, Landry went 69 yards in eight plays. Jones' TD came when he faked to a halfback then plunged through right guard for the tally. The kick was short and wide.

But Oak Grove's lead was short lived.

Early in the second period the south Louisiana Tigers got possession on Oak Grove's 38 following a Butler quick kick of 33 yards and from here they went in front for good.

Halfback Richard Stutes and Jones alternated in carrying the ball to paydirt in seven plays. This time Jones rammed over from 11 yards out and again the PAT failed when defensive halfback Roy Carothers blocked the kick.

The half ended 12-7 and neither team could get closer than their opponents' 30 in the third quarter, Oak Grove doing this once midway in the frame when a brilliant 33 yard run by Hemphill helped the Bengals move to Landry's' 31 before faultering.

Then Landry hooked up on a 77 yard marched that proved to be the game winning points. Again Jones and Davoi provided the punch with Jones going in to ice it up.

Davoi finished with 94 yards on 13 carries and Stutes picked up 35 yards on seven trips.

For Oak Grove Hemphill's 36 yards on three tries was the only double figure mark. Butler gained eight yards on two carries and Tommy Smith got seven on three tries.

Landry got 7 first downs, all on the ground, while Oak Grove managed but five and got none in the first half.

Oak Grove finished with 35 yards on the ground while Landry's big Tigers netted 54. Jones threw three times and failed to complete any.

Scoring summary

Philadelphia 76ers' Co-Owner Collapses, Dies During Contest

BOSTON (AP) — Co-Owner Isaac (Ike) Richman, 52, of the Philadelphia 76ers collapsed and died Friday night during the early minutes of a National Basketball Association game against the Boston Celtics.

Richman was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival, presumably after suffering a heart attack.

Richman was sitting on the 76ers bench, next to Coach Dolph Schayes, when he collapsed. He was attended by Boston's team physician, Dr. John Dougherty.

The game continued while Richman was taken from Boston Garden on a stretcher.

Richman, an attorney, negotiated the sale of the old Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco, then brought professional basketball back to Philadelphia when he and partner Irv Kosloff bought the Syracuse Nationals in 1963. They brought the franchise to Philadelphia for the 1963-64 season.

He served as attorney for the team and was personal lawyer for Wilt Chamberlain and Eddie Gottlieb, general manager of the Warriors.

Richman was instrumental in bringing Chamberlain back to his hometown of Philadelphia with the 76ers last year. He also negotiated the recent $60,000 purchase of a harness horse for a group which included Chamberlain.

Richman leaves a widow, Clare, two sons, Michael and David, and a daughter, Sybil.

Richman signed Chamberlain to a reported $100,000 contract before the current NBA season opened. He had obtained Chamberlain in a trade from San Francisco after the 1965 All-Star game in St. Louis, Mo. last January.

Born and raised in Philadelphia, Richman graduated from temple University in 1934 and Temple Law School in 1937.

At First, sports was only a hobby. He built up his law practice and dabbled in politics, becoming a Republican Committeeman in the 50th division of the 35th ward.

His sports interest led him to tour the basketball circuit with Gottlieb, then shepherding a team known as the SPHAS, sometimes driving the team's bus.

Richman was known not only for his business acumen and his skill in attracting such hardcourt stars as Dolph Schayes, now coach of the 76ers, and Chamberlain, but also for his sense of humor.

One sportswriter related how Richman approached the cashier of a country club the morning after a benefit game to which he had invited half a dozen guests.

"What's it going to cost me to get out of here?" Richman asked.

The girl quipped, "the shirt off your back."

Richman unhesitatingly laid down his checkbook, pulled off the 76ers t-shirt he was wearing, and handed it to the cashier.

"And how much money besides?" he asked.

In Philadelphia, 76ers co-owner Kosloff said he was watching the game on television at his home and saw Richman collapse, but did not realize how serious the attack was until he called the hospital in Boston.

He said he and Richmand had grown up together in South Philadelphia, and had known each other for 40 years.

Kosloff described Richman as "a dynamic force" who would be missed in the world of basketball.

He said funeral services were tentatively scheduled for Sunday in Philadelphia. This, however, was subject to transportation arrangements. Kosloff explained that Jewish religious custom prohibits the return of the body to Philadelphia until the sabbath ends, after sundown today.

76ers Defeat Boston After Owner Dies

BOSTON, (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Boston Celtics 119-103 Friday night in a National Basketball Association game during which Philadelphia's co-owner, Isaac (Ike) Richman, suffered an apparent heart attack and died.

The loss snapped the Celtics' five-game winning streak and was their first home defeat of the season after nine victorres.

The score was tied 13-13 when Richman seated next to the Philadelphia bench, slumped over with a seizure. When play resumed the 76ers, sparked by Wilt Chamberlain and Wally Jones, ran 13 straight points to forge a lead they boosted to 18 points, 61-43, by halftime.

Playing without leading scorer Sam Jones, who will miss several more games due to a severe knee sprain, the Celtics lacked their customary explosive attack and never drew closer than 12 points in the second half.

Houston Signs Player From Vikings' Contract

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Houston Oiler owner K. S. (Bud) Adams said Friday the Oilers have signed a college football player whom he claimed had been pressured into signing a pre-dated contract with the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League.

Richard Werner, 6-foot-3, 297-pound offensive tackle from Bemidji State in Minnesota signed in the Oiler offices with Milt Woodard, assistant commissioner of the American Football League, looking on.

"The Oilers have affidavits that prove conclusively that the Vikings pressured him into signing on Nov. 21, a full week before either league had its draft, thereby eliminating the boy's bargaining power," Adams said.

Adams said the Oilers originally had planned to draft Werner and fly him to Kansas City where the Houston club played last weekend and where their part of the draft was conducted.

"When we talked to him he was so reluctant to come that we knew that he probably already had been signed," Adams said. "We finally located him and he told us what happened. We made him an offer and when he weighed it against the one the Vikings had made, he accepted ours."

Woodard said the Oilers' signing was legal under an agreement between the American and National Leagues "that any contract signed before the draft date will be negated, making the player a free agent again."

In Minneapolis-St. Paul, the Vikings treated the matter as a tempest in a teapot and said the Oilers were welcome to Werner.

Minnesota General Manager Jim Finks said he signed Werner only after the player came to him and asked to be signed.

Finks admitted signing Werner to an undated contract for a small bonus, reported to be in the neighborhood of $1,000, Nov. 21.

However, Finks said it was with Werner's express knowledge that if he were drafted by a team in either the National or American League he was not bound to honor the Minnesota contract.

Finks said he mailed the bonus check to Werner Tuesday of this week, and that he assumed the player had not cashed it.

Bemidiji State ended its football season Oct. 30.

Said Finks:

'On or about Nov. 19, Dick Werner called me and wanted to know if we were interested in him. He told me that a couple of other clubs were interested and said they were going to draft him.

"I told him we were not planning to draft him but would be interested in signing him as a free agent. He indicated he needed some money, and wanted to know what we were going to offer.

"We invited him in for our Green Bay game Nov. 21, and at that time I offered him a small bonus to sign. He signed the contract with the firm understanding that it was not registered because the draft had not been held. As a matter of fact, the check was not dated for the same reason.

Twin City Five's Win In Bastrop

Bastrop dumped Collinston by a score of 73-59 in another night encounter. Bill Homer led the Rams with 15 points as Alec Gregory canned 35 for Collinston.

In girls' games during the night, Bonita topped Kilbourne 49-41 and Neville edged Bastrop 30-26 in overtime.

In a morning session Ouachita topped Bonita 69-46 in a boys' contest. The Lions placed four players in double figures as Gary Armstrong had 16 points, Jimmy Hickey 15, Kenny Cupples 14 and Ronnie Platt 10. Bonita's high scorer was Humphries with 15 markers.

Titles Can Be Won, But Picker Says No

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — The two remaining titles in pro football can be clinched this weekend with Baltimore and San Diego within striking distance of the undecided Western Division crowns.

The Colts can wrap up the NFL's Western championship by downing Chicago, if Green Bay loses to Minnesota. The Chargers can finish off the AFL's Western race by beating New York, provided Oakland loses to Denver.

But it won't happen.

That's if you can believe the peerless picker who pooped out last week with a 4-4 record, leaving the season mark 71-43-6 for a .623. Here we go again (all games Sunday unless noted):

National League

Baltimore 35, Chicago 31 — The loss of defensive end Ordell Braase could hurt the Colts, who shut off the Bears' running game in a previous 26-21 victory — Chicago's only loss in the last eight games.

The Colts have had 10 days to get ready for this one — and Johnny Unitas is due for a big day.

Green Bay 21, Minnesota 17 — The Packers, now 1½ games behind Baltimore, will be looking to stay in the race for a head-on shot at Colts Dec. 12. Green Bay leads NFL in pass defense and Vikings had to try another quarterback last week, bringing in Ron VanderKelen for Fran Tarkerton.

Cleveland 28, Washington 14 — The Browns have their second straight Eastern crown tucked away but will undoubtedly try to give the home folks a final show. Jim Brown is one touchdown away for the NFL record of 20.

New York 35, Pittsburgh 21 — The Giants, tied with St. Louis and Washington for the runner-up spot in the East, are pinning their hopes on a shot at the Playoff Bowl for second-place teams. The Steelers shouldn't be able to stand in their way, even with Bill Nelsen back at quarterback.

San Francisco 28, Detroit 24 — John Brodie, who passed for five touchdowns against Minnesota last week, should give the 49ers the edge. Mile Plum is passing well for Lions again but there isn't enough offense to match San Francisco.

St. Louis 24, Los Angeles 20 — Charley Johnson, who returned at quarterback for the Cardinals last week, should be ready to hit his stride again. The Rams beat Green Bay last week with Roman Gabriel at quarterback instead of Bill Munson.

Philadelphia 35, Dallas 28 — Norm Snead, fully recovered from a knee injury, has been passing the opposition silly for the Eagles. The Cowboys were unable to hold a 24-6 lead against Washington last week.

American League

San Diego 35, New York 24 — Keith Lincoln goes back in at fullback for the Chargers, who will test how far the Jets have progressed since Joe Namath took over as their No. 1 quarterback. Chargers have too much talent.

Oakland 31, Denver 20 — Rookies Larry Todd and Fred Biletnikoff are becoming key figures in Raiders' late drive. The defense however, will have to contend with Cookie Gilchrist, trying to overtake San Diego's Paul Lowe in rushing race.

Buffalo 28, Houston 17 — The Bills have clinched their second straight Eastern title but they will be trying out a new running back combination with Bobby Smith at halfback, Wray Carlton at fullback and Billy Joe resting.

Tennessee, UCLA Help Close Year

By BEN OLAN
AP Sports Writer

UCLA and Tennessee, both bowl-bound and among the nation's top-ranked teams, meet in Memphis in the big game as the regular college football season closes today.

Fifth-ranked UCLA will pit quarterback flash, sophomore Gary Beban, against a tough Volunteer team that has allowed an average of less than seven points per game.

As Pacific Athletic Conference champions, the Bruins are headed for the Rose Bowl, where they'll take on top-ranked Michigan State on New Year's Day. Seventh-ranked Tennessee will be heading for its Dec. 18 Bluebonnet Bowl date with Tulsa in Houston, Tex.

Penn State and Maryland will end their season at College Park, Md., in a game to be nationally televised, NBC, 1 p.m., EST. This could be the last one at Maryland for Coach Tom Nugent. Nugent's contract runs out this year, and a loss to the heavily favored Nittany Lions would mark his team's third straight losing year. Each team now is 4-5.

The television coverage, incidentally, will be unique because the network is solving a commitment problem with a split screen and simultaneous coverage of the game and the launching of the Gemini 7 astronauts.

At Norman, Okla., about 55,000 spectators are expected to see Big Eight rivals Oklahoma State and Oklahoma close disappointing campaigns. State hasn't beaten the Sooners since 1945, when two-time All-America Bob Fenimore led the Cowboys to a 47-0 conquest.

In a night game, Morgan State faces Florida A&M in the annual Orange Blossom Classic at Miami.

Clemson Receives Heavy Fine For Violating Rules

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Clemson University has been fined $2,500 by the Atlantic Coast Conference for violating the conference rule limiting football and basketball scholarships to a total of 140.

Commissioner Jim Weaver of the ACC also notified Clemson Friday that 18 members of this year's freshman football squad, who are currently receiving aid, must be withheld from competition during the 1966-67 academic year.

Weaver also ruled that should any of the 18 compete in subsequent years, Clemson must limit its aid that year to 35 incoming football prospects, less the number from the original list of 18.

Pilot Quits

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — William C. Heiss, head football coach at Colorado State College since 1963, asked Friday to be relieved of his assignment. He gave no reason.

Darrell Holmes, college president, said Heiss' request will be granted and that he will remain on the faculty as an associate professor of physical health and education.

In Heiss' three years as head coach his teams compiled a record of 12-14-2 with a 4-4-2 mark this year.

Purdue Paper Attacks Head Football Pilot

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue University's campus newspaper, The Exponent, charged in an editorial Friday that football Coach Jack Mollenkopf "has committed too many mistakes" and ought to resign.

Mollenkopf, head coach for 10 years, this fall had a 7-2-1 record which was the boilermakers' best since 1943. But the Exponent complained:

"Our 1965 squad had more potential than perhaps any other gridiron team in the nation; and with another coach, Purdue fans would probably be making plans for a New Year's trip to Pasadena instead of planning for next year's season."

The campus paper is published without a faculty adviser.

Athletic Director Guy Mackey said a week ago that Mollenkopf is the greatest football coach in the country and will keep the job "as long as I have anything to say about it."

Mollenkopf was out of town Friday.

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Lafayette edged West Jefferson 7-6 Friday night in a battle between the two teams tied for the No. 1 rating in triple-A football.

With 5:06 left in the first period, George Coussan uncorked a long pass to Charles Moncla for a Lafayette touchdown play covering 53 yards.

Lafayette stopped West Jeff on the Lion eight-yard line early in the second period but the next time West Jeff got the ball it scored on a nine-yard pitchout to Pat Pertuit from Phil Blanda.

Lafayette limited West Jeff to 33 yards in total offense after intermission.

Amazing Tribe Cage Team Home For Two

Northeast State's amazing basketball Indians returned home Friday from a two-game raid into Mississippi with some pretty impressive booty — victories over two of the four teams to defeat them last year, one the school's first cage triumph over a major college team.

Northeast knocked off Delta State, 72-62, Wednesday night to snap a nine-game home winning streak for the Statesmen and then scored one of the biggest victories in Indian history Thursday night.

Down by 17 points with nine minutes to go, the Indians staged one of their patented late-game surges to win a 78-72 overtime verdict over Mississippi State of the Southeastern Conference.

The victory over State was Northeast's first over a big-time opponent and was much the sweeter since it came on the Mississippi State court, where the Bulldogs are traditionally hard to beat.

Little Tommy Enloe and a couple of unsung substitutes — James Brian and Ronnie Suggs —sparked the victory. Enloe led all scorers with 24 points and was principally responsible for chopping down the big State lead in the last nine minutes with five straight long jumpers.

Brian, who almost didn't play this season, sank a layup with 12 seconds remaining in regulation time to send the contest into overtime and then put in four free throws in the extra period to wrap up the victory. Brian had planned to pass up his final year of eligibility to devote full time to serving as freshman coach and team manager but returned to duty before the season opened to bolster the Tribe's front line.

Suggs came through with five points and three crucial rebounds late in the game that helped put the Indians over the top.

Paul Thompson, the biggest man in the Indian lineup at 6-4, hauled down 13 rebounds to pace Northeast. The Indians collected only 12 rebounds in the first half to State's 30 but it was a different story in the last half as Northeast pulled down 27 to State's 21.

The victory was the fourth straight for Northeast, defending Gulf States Conference champion and 1965-66 favorite.

Northeast will be at home for two games over the next two weeks before opening the GSC campaign Dec. 17 at McNeese. Monday night the Indians play William Carey in Brown Gym and play host to Louisiana College the following Monday.

Enloe is the Tribe's scoring leader with an average of 19.7 points a game. Glynn Saulters is second with 17.1 average and two other Indians are in double figures — Thompson with an 11.5 average and Brooks with a 10.2 average. The other starter, Chris Rhodes, is averaging 6.7 points.

Thompson is first in rebounds with a 10.2 average and Rhodes is second with 7.2.

Wossman Grabs 3rd Win 78-49

Wossman's Wildcats scored 21 points in the second quarter and followed with 24 in the third to romp by Baskin High 78-49 here Friday night.

It was the third straight win for the Wildcats of Coach Sidney Smith and have not been beaten in the young basketball season.

Donnie Graves led the Wossman quintet on both offense and defense, as the sophomore speedster netted 37 and hauled in 22 rebounds.

Danny Kilcoyne and Rodney Willis added the extra scoring punch, with Kilcoyne zipping the nets for 17 points and Willis, who also was a defensive standout with 14 rebounds, popped in 10 points.

Three Baskin players hit in double figures, with Landel McKeithen leading the way with 15 points. Larry Banks had 12 points and Dennis Mulligan added 10.

The Wildcats moved out to a 17-15 lead at the end of the first period and then ran it to 12 points at intermission with the 21 points second frame, 38-26.

Following the 24 points production in the third period, Wossman grabbed a 62-38 lead, and increased it to the winning margin with a 16 points final quarter scoring spree.

In a preliminary girls game, Wossman came out on the long end of a 43-37 score to move its season mark to 2-2. Linda Tullos led all scorers in the game with 24 points while Janet Barnes added 11, both for the Wildcat sextet. Sandra Zumbro paced the Baskin squad by pouring in 23 points.

The Wildcats next action is set for Tuesday when it travels to Columbia for a battle with the sophomore unit of Caldwell High School. Wossman, just a freshman - sophomore school, has been playing both varsity and sophomore units this season. Baskin, Friday's opponent, was the varsity unit.

Following the Tuesday tilt, Wossman will enter the Mangham Invitational Tournament next weekend and its next home game is set for Dec. 22, against cross-town rival St. Frederick.

Score by quarters:

Wossman	17	21	24	16-78

Tigers Move To Finals Of Own Meet

GRAMBLING (Special) — Grambling College routed Dillard University 106-69 Friday night with an offensive splurge than even frequent substitution could not deter, to move into the finals of its own invitational tournament with Alcorn A&M.

Prohibited favorites from the opening gun, Grambling coasted to the victory with James Jones and Johnny Comeaux and Howard Davis hitting consistently from outside. Jones meshed 25 points and Comeaux chipped in 23 for runners-up honors.

Major League Officials Close Meet With Disappointments

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Disappointed major league officials ended their meeting Friday with a frustrated feeling over having failed to complete a single player trade of major proportions.

The closest to a swap of any significance was the four-player deal in which the San Francisco Giants acquired right-handed relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel from the Chicago Cubs Thursday.

There was still some hope, however, that a couple or more transactions involving name players would be consummated before Dec. 10, when the three-week interleague trading period comes to an end.

Several deals were still hanging fire as the club owners and their entourages left for their home bases.

John McHale, president of the Atlanta Braves, blocked in his efforts to acquire a right-handed relief pitcher from a rival National League team, swung over to the American with a bid for John Wyatt, workhorse right-hander of the Kansas City Athletics.

McHale offered Rico Carty, a hard-hitting outfielder who batted .300 this year although plagued a good part of the season with an ailing back. Wyatt, 32, appeared in 65 games for the A's this past season. He established a major league record of 81 appearances in 1964, a mark broken this year by Ted Abernathy, who pitched in 84 games for the Cubs.

The Braves also bid for Boston first baseman Lee Thomas, offering a starting pitcher, either Hank Fischer or Bob Sadowski, in exchange. The Red Sox, also dickering with Detroit for an outfielder, preferably Gates Brown, advised the Braves they would take their offer under advisement.

"Our prime needs are a right-handed relief pitcher and a left-handed hitter," said Manager Bobby Bragan of the Braves.

"We're hopeful we can swing deals for the men we're after before the interleague trade deadline."

The American League champion Minnesota Twins, stymied in their attempts to land a second baseman, reportedly proposed a five-player deal to California involving catcher Earl Battey, outfielder Jimmie Hall and pitcher Dick Stigman for catcher Bob Rodgers and relief ace Bob Lee of the Angels. The Angels still were mulling over that one at a late hour Friday.

Philadelphia's Phillies, trying desperately to peddle Dick Stuart, offered the slugging first baseman to the New York Mets for a pitcher. They asked specifically for either Jack Fisher or Darrell Sutherland. In the meantime, they were considering a Baltimore offer of outfielder Jackie Brandt and a pitcher for outfielder Adolfo Phillips and relief pitcher Jack Baldschun.

The surprise of the meetings was the Cincinnati Reds' apparent willingness to trade Frank Robinson, who has been their siege gun since the departure of Ted Kluszewski. A Houston official disclosed that the Astros had rejected a Red request for center fielder Jim Wynn and promising right-hander Larry Dierker in exchange for the 30-year-old slugger.

Robinson hit .296 with 33 home runs and 113 runs batted in last season. He was the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1962, when he hit .342, hammered 39 home runs and drove in 136 runs.

The Reds also were weighing an offer of pitcher Phil Ortega by Washington for second baseman Chico Ruiz. Another second baseman, Julian Javier of the St. Louis Cards, is being sought by the Chicago White Sox.

Should St. Louis trade Javier it would mark the final move in a complete revamping of the Cards' regular infield of 1965. In previous transactions, shortstop Dick Groat and first baseman Bill White were traded to Philadelphia and third baseman Ken Boyer to the Mets.

A new name cropped up as a candidate for the vacant White Sox' managerial job. He is Nellie Fox, former Chicago favorite, now coaching Houston. Astros' officials said, however, they had not been contacted by the White Sox regarding the former second baseman.

Graebner Is Final Yankee In Victorian

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, defeated Herb Fitzgibbon of Garden City, N.Y., 10-8, 3-6, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2 Friday and became the sole American hope for the men's singles title in the Victorian Tennis Championships.

By disposing of FitzGibbon in a hard-fought, quarter-final match at the rain-soaked Kooyong grass courts, Graebner joined Wimbledon titleholder Roy Emerson and two other Australian Davis Cuppers, John Newcombe and Fred Stolle, in the semifinals.

FitzGibbon had gained the quarter-final round by eliminating Arthur Ache of Richmond, Va., the top-seeded American, in third round competition Thursday.

Graebner next will meet Stolle and Emerson will oppose Newcombe today, with the winners playing in the final Sunday.

Newcombe moved into the semifinal round by defeating Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 9-7 and Stolle eliminated Bill Bowrey, another Australian, 6-8, 6-1, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3.

Carol Graebner, Clark's wife, and Nancy Richey of Dallas led the women's singles contenders into the semifinal round. Mrs. Graebner whipped Jan Lehane of Australia 6-4, 6-1 and Miss Richey beat Judy Tegart, also of Australia, 6-1, 6-2.

In other women's quarter-final matches, involving Australians, Gail Sheriff turned back Lesley Turner 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 and Margaret Smith downed Madonna Schacht 6-4, 8-6.

In the men's doubles, Graebner and Riessen defeated Ray Ruffels and John Cottril of Australia 6-4, 6-3. However, Ashe and Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., were eliminated by Australia's Bowrey and Owen Davidson, 15-13, 6-3 in the third round.

Miss Richey and Mrs. Graebner whipped Pat Barnett and Margaret Buck of Australia 6-0, 6-1 in the second round of the women's doubles.

The unavailability of the courts due to rain forced the cancellation of the mixed doubles championships. In addition, the third round of the men's doubles was reduced to best-of-three sets because of the rain delays.

Dartmouth Pilot Is Considering Hawkeye Offer

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Bob Blackman, coach of Dartmouth's undefeated Ivy League football champions, said today he is seriously considering an offer to become head football coach at the University of Iowa.

"The offer is extremely favorable," Blackman told the Associated Press.

Blackman visited the Iowa campus Wednesday and Thursday and said he was "extremely impressed."

"I think I'd be happier out there," he said.

"I've had offers before but this is the first time I actually went to another school."

Blackman said he is talking things over with his family.

He said he may take his wife to Iowa next week for a visit.

"I have to do a little thinking about those things," he said.

"Some of my assistant coaches here at Dartmouth probably would move with me."

Blackman has been the head football coach at Dartmouth since 1955. Previously, he was with the University of Denver.

He declined to give details of the Iowa offer.

Dartmouth had a 9-0 record last season and received the Lambert Trophy, symbol of Eastern football supremacy.

Under Blackman's coaching, Dartmouth teams won 69, lost 27 and tied 3 games. His teams won Ivy League titles in 1958, 1962 and 1963 and finished second in 1957 and 1959.

In Iowa City, Athletic Director Forest Evashevski confirmed that Blackman spent a 24-hour period on the Iowa campus.

Two Giants Will Be Sidelined For Rest Of Season

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie linebacker Olen Underwood and defensive tackle Roger Lalonde of the New York Giants will be sidelined for the rest of the season, the National Football League club said Friday.

Both suffered knee injuries recently and Underwood is expected to undergo surgery Monday. They were placed on the team's injured reserve list.

The two injured players have been replaced on the roster by Roger Davis, a guard, and linebacker Tom Costello.

Tribe Cross Country Team After 6th GSC Crown Today

But Indian Harriers Are Rated Underdogs

Coach Bob Groseclose's Northeast Louisiana State College defending GSC champions in cross country will be underdogs today as they attempt to bring the distance crown home for the fifth time in the last six years.

The conference meet will be run over a three - mile hard-surface course at McNeese State's Chennault campus at Lake Charles starting at 10 a.m.

Relying heavily on several promising freshmen to fill gaps left by graduation after the 1964 season, the Indians took three straight dual meets before being defeated. They finished fourth in their last outing, the annual Thanksgiving Day Invitational Meet at New Orleans.

Groseclose said today the Indin entries in the conference meet would be Tom Brown, senior three-letterman from Hallsville, Tex., who led the Northeast Staters to the championship with sixth place in the 1964 GSC meet; James Bodin, junior two - letterman from Franklin, who has been one of the top performers on the club this season; Bobby Keasler, sophomore letterman from New Iberia who was one of the team leaders before suffering a foot injury about mid - season; Cully Warren, sophomore from Winnfield and top - ten finisher several times this season; Tad Price and Mike Roberts, outstanding freshmen from Shreveport Byrd High, and Jeff Rowden, freshman from Amite.

Keasler is still hampered by his injured foot but will run in the season finale, Groseclose said.

Northwestern and Southwestern are expected to be the top contenders for the 1965 cross country crown. Eddie Watt, the Demons' fine English runner, is the leading contender for individual honors. He placed second last year to Malcolm Robinson of USL, also an Englishman, who won his fourth straight individual title. Robinson is now assistant to USL coach Bob Cole.

The Bulldogs have a strong club, led by Louis Maraist, a newcomer to the team although he is an junior in school, and Howard Trahan, who placed seventh in last year's title meet.

In addition to NLSC's Tom Brown, other top finishers in the 1964 meet back for another try are Watt and Tony Ward of Northwestern, who finished third, and Brendan Minihan of Louisiana Tech, No. 4 man last year.

Host McNeese and Southeastern rank as darkhorse contenders, along with Tech. The Cowboy's top runners are Canadian Ted Jackson and Lake Charles freshman Joe Pelafigue.

Crossett Football Team To Travel To Cotton Bowl

CROSSETT (Special) — A drive to secure funds to send the 4AA Championship Crossett Eagles football team to the Cotton Bowl on New Years is a success, and the team with their coaches will make the trip.

Robert Fay Malloy, president of the Eagle Booster Club, reported this week that more than $1,050 has thus far been received and they have assurances that the balance of the money needed, about $150, will be forthcoming.

It is planned to take the team on a chartered bus and in private cars to Dallas for the game between the Arkansas Razorbacks and the LSU Tigers. Malloy said final arrangements have not yet been made and they are not sure just when the team will depart or return.

Mike McKeever Re-Injures Head In Auto Accident

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Mike McKeever, former University of Southern California football star whose twin, Marlin, plays professional football, underwent surgery Friday after an auto accident.

The two-car collision, which occurred in a dense, early-morning fog in nearby Fountain Valley, left the 25-year-old McKeever unconscious with a gash on the back of his head, sheriff's deputies said.

He was brought to Long Beach Memorial Hospital, where neurosurgeons said his condition was critical.

Marlin, an end for the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, remained with his brother as did Mike's wife, Judy, who is expecting a child soon. A Ram spokesman said Marlin would not fly with the team to St. Louis, Mo.

Mike had been drafted by the Rams, but doctors had advised him not to continue in the game because of a head injury he suffered while playing college ball.

Upon graduation in 1964, he took a job as superintendent of a residential building firm in Orange County.

AAU President Says Any Government Made Decision Must Retain Recognition

By W.B. RAGSDALE JR.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Clifford Buck of the Amateur Athletic Union said Friday any government-dictated settlement of the AAU feud with the National Collegiate Athletic Association must continue AAU recognition as international representative in 10 Olympic sports.

Buck, in a presidential statement to the 78th annual AAU convention, said it appears that the NCAA wants a settlement only on its own terms.

But then he said the AAU could not accept, even if it wanted to, any settlement that would strip the AAU of recognition on interational federations because it is up to the federations to accept whomever they choose.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is expected to appoint soon a five-man panel to arbitrate differences between the two amateur sports bodies. The panel was created by a Senate resolution after hearings last September.

However, Buck added, "we all have reason to be concerned about the existing situation. The International Olympic Committee sent a sharply worded message to the U.S. Olympic Committee that the hearings in Washington and the proposal for a permanent panel of arbitration can be considered government interference—which is denounced by the Internatioal Olympic Committee."

The women's basketball committee of the AAU voted to put more speed into the game to help U.S. women in international competition.

The committee adopted the continuous dribble and the 30-second rule, but kept the division of the court now used in AAU basketball.

The action is subject to final approval today.

In other action during the third day of the convention:

The women's national AAU track and field meet next July was awarded to Frederick, Md., by a 21-13 vote over Los Angeles.

Randy Matson, Texas A&M shotputter, won the L. DiBenedetto award for the outstanding track and field performance of 1965, a toss of 70 feet, 7 inches last May 8 at College Station, Tex., for a world record.

Basketball for boys and girls was added to the Junior Olympics program.

In discussing the dispute with the NCAA, Buck said it is a mistake to say that it is a fight "for greater control of track and field in the United States."

"This is a fallacy," he said. "The AAU is the single organization recognized by the world governing body. The NCAA has created a puppet group, the U.S. Track and Field Federation, to oust the AAU as the recognized governing body."

Gala Birthday Dance Fetes Teenager; Miss Pam Cannon

Celebrating her entrance into the teenage world Sunday evening was Miss Pamela Cannon. The Bayou DeSiard Country Club was festively adorned with party decorations in a multitude of pastel colors for the dance which was given Miss Cannon by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cannon.

The ballroom was gaily hung with streamers of pastel crepe paper, and clusters of balloons forming a tent-like effect over the room. At the entrance to the party area and over the bandstand, where music was provided by the Impacts, were additional streamers of paper and balloons. The centerpiece for the refreshment table was a large cluster of the pastel balloons forming an axis for the bright streamers which extended the length of the table. Punch bowls were placed at both ends of this table.

Personalized fountain pens wrapped in pink and blue were the favors presented to each guest. The birthday gifts were placed on the piano in one corner of the festive ballroom.

Miss Cannon was wearing a rose velvet jumper with a white silk organza blouse for her birthday party, and a corsage of tiny rosebuds completed her attire.

WHITE RETURNS

Gray discoloration of fabrics is often caused by a build-up of detergent. It's sometimes possible to return the fabric to its original white by washing the clothes in warm or hot water and a cup of Calgon water conditioner. Don't add soap. The whole idea is to let the Calgon solution release soap film.

If your cheese comes wrapped in foil or waxed material, don't remove the wrapper. Just slice through it as you use the cheese.

DEAR ABBY

Doctor's Help Worth Being Thankful For

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I don't have much of a problem, but I would like your opinion on this. When I paid my doctor bill, I enclosed a little note to my doctor telling him how much I appreciated his services.

A friend of mine said I was foolish for doing such a thing — that all a doctor was interested in from his patients, was the fee. I can't believe that. I thought he was such a wonderful doctor because of what he did for me I wanted him to know how I felt. Did I do wrong?

MRS. R.

DEAR MRS. R.: Not in MY book. Doctors are people, and they do more than "sell" their services. A good doctor gives comfort, compassion, encouragement, hope and peace of mind. You can pay for shots, pills, treatment and surgery. But the only way to express appreciation for that which isn't on the bill is a simple "thank you." (P.S. But don't forget to enclose your check.)

DEAR ABBY: After a lot of discussion, we finally made a deal with our son and are letting him wear his hair the way he wants to. When I tell you that his hair is longer than his mother's, I am not putting you on. He is all boy, but he does help his mother in the kitchen, peeling vegetables, drying dishes, carrying out garbage, etc. This morning I found a hair about nine inches long in my breakfast food. It was his! (His mother has red hair, he has brown hair.) Don't you think this is reason enough to make him cut his hair?

GREENVILLE DAD

DEAR DAD: If the hair was NINE inches long, there's a better reason. But since you made a deal with him, don't welch. Just make him wear a hairnet when he helps his mother in the kitchen.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I disagree on a very serious matter. We have a 15-year-old daughter who has been a handful ever since she was 12. She is very big for her age, and boy crazy. The good Lord is surely watching over her or she'd have been in trouble more than once. A fellow who is 22 wants to marry her, and she wants to quit school and marry him. She needs our signatures. The man is a common laborer but he seems like a decent sort. He came to us and asked for her hand like a gentleman. My wife says we should sign and get her married so we won't have to worry about her anymore. I say she should know him longer because I'm afraid this marriage won't stick and we'll have her back in a year with a kid. She's only gone with him six weeks. We want your opinion.

WORRIED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: I hope your wife listens to you. Of all the reasons to sign for a 15-year-old to marry, you wife's is the poorest.

DEAR ABBY: I have always heard that "confession" was good for the soul. Well, perhaps it is. But it is bad for the marriage. I suspected my husband of being unfaithful to me. At first he denied it, but I badgered him until he finally broke down and confessed everything. He begged to be forgiven and I told him I forgave him. But it has ruined our relationship. Although neither of us refers to it, in our most intimate moments, this woman forever sleeps between us.

SORRY I ASKED

Hints From Heloise

Decorated Match Book Covers Are Fun Gifts

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Folks:

Our pocketbooks seem to get lighter and lighter around Christmas, don't they? And it's especially hard for the children to stretch their money far enough for all the gifts they'd like to give.

Here is an inexpensive little idea — especially good as a gift to the grandparents:

Round up a bunch of book matches and make attractive and interesting covers for them. Get a lot of reprints (about five cents apiece) of your favorite snapshots of the children and some of Papa and Mama.

Cut the pictures to completely cover (except for the striking part) the outside of the books of matches and staple or glue them on the outside.

Everytime the person who receives the gift strikes a match, he will see the picture of one of the family.

If you don't want to spend money on pictures, how about covering the book matches with scraps of pretty adhesive-backed paper? And cover a box to put the matches in.

Very attractive and costs practically nothing.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I'm starting my Christmas baking now and freezing it. Most of the cut - out cookies will be frosted and decorated in those last few endless days before Christmas. The boys keep busy for hours doing this.

I mke big batches of frosting, then tint and flavor the frosting in small individual bowls.

A spoon is placed in each bowl to frost with. I then supply the boys with a tray of candies, nuts, raisins and sprinkles.

Each one has his own wash cloth to wipe sticky fingers (though I still see lots of licking!) and a big dish towel tied around his neck to keep his clothes clean.

Judy B.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise:

My husband has refused to drink any instant coffee I make unless it is the brand his mother always uses.

So — if I need coffee, and there's another reputable brand on sale, I buy it and just pour it into the empty glass jar of his mother's brand . . . and there's been nary a complaint!

J. T.

Dear Heloise:

You know how difficult it is to get a large dishwashing sponge into a small glass to wash it?

I cut my sponge in half diagonally.

The small, pointed end reaches down to the hard - to - get - at areas, and the wider end still works just as well for larger items.

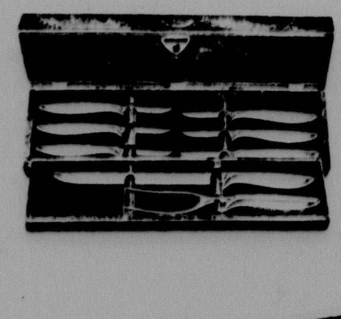
A long, long time ago when fact and legend were one, a good man needed only a good blade to make him hero or king. Excalibur made Arthur King of Britain. Siegfried's great sword, Balmung, slew the dragon Fafnir, and Roland's mighty sword, Durendal left a lasting cleft in the Pyrenees. Heroic deeds from the distant past have inspired these modern Gerber blades matched only in legend.

Inspired by legend ... SUPERB CUTLERY FOR MODERN HEROES



GERBER LEGENDARY BLADES — these blades are something special. They are handmade from a steel so superb that it is known as "the steel that cuts other steel." With such sharpness you can imagine how effortlessly a Gerber blade carves a roast, ham or fowl, or cuts a steak. They not only take a sharper edge but they hold it far longer than ordinary blades. We have carving sets, dining sets, kitchen sets, from $4 to $185. Come in and see the jewel of Fine Cutlery — Gerber Legendary Blades.

'The Rivals' Is Next On Tech Series

RUSTON (Special) — A wealthy ship's captain, to win the hand of his beloved, disguises himself as a poor ensign in "The Rivals," Sheridan's classic comedy to be presented Monday as the third program in the Louisiana Tech Concert Series.

The Tech concert will be seen at 8 p.m. Monday, with a special 2:45 p.m. performance for students Tuesday. A performance of "The Rivals" for high school students of the LTCA service area will be given on Wednesday at 9:45 a.m.

The play will have just closed a short run at Dallas' Kalita Humphreys Theater, the troupe's home base. This is one of the most poular plays ever presented by the touring troupe from the Dallas Theater Center.

In Dallas, "The Rivals" has sold out its repertory performances the past two seasons, due to its popularity established with the original production in 1962.

Louise Mosley and Drexel Riley have the romantic leads in the comedy. Priez - winning Australian director Robin Lovejoy directed and designed the show, which will feature the original costumes.

In the plot, the wealthy but disguised captain involves himself in a duel. There are mistaken identities and other entanglements. The play not only satirizes he overly romantic comedy of Elizabethan England but pokes good natured fun at society characters.

The original cast includes Riley as Jack Absolute, Miss Mosely as Lydia Languish, Ronald Wilcox as Sir Anthony Absolute, Robyn Baker Flatt as Julia Melville and Ken Latimer as Bob Acres.

The majority of the permanent cast of the Dallas Theater Center have toured Europe with Faulkner's "As I Lay Dieing."

Santa Parade Winners Cited

Squeals of delight from youngsters who turned out for the West Monroe Santa Parade paid high compliments Friday afternoon to the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

Santa Claus, riding in a fire truck with Boy Scout Troop 34 was the main interest, followed by colorful floats and high-stepping marching units.

First place in the float competition was taken by the First Baptist Church of West Monroe for their float decorated in the theme of "Star of Wonder." The float depicted a giant star at the front of the vehicle, with a platform showing a large paper-mache camel, flanked by two costumed "shepherds."

Second place award went to St. Paschal's Catholic Church, using the theme "St. Francis' Crib at Greccio." "Christmas In Viet Nam—Fight for Christ," was the theme used by the third place winner, Brownville Baptist Church.

All the floats entered used Biblical themes for their scenes.

Floats were judged on how closely they followed their theme in decoration, esthetic quality and the apparent planning and work which went into them.

Judges were Mrs. Donna Moore of West Monroe, associate home demonstration agent of Ouachita Parish; Mrs. Audrey Dawson of Monroe, home demonstration agent for the parish; and Don Alexander of West Monroe, a commercial artist.

Awards were presented after the parade at the review stand on Trenton Street.

The following marching units were awarded trophies for participation in the Yule event: West Monroe Junior High School Band, Confederettes, NLSC-ROTC Band, NLSC-Fucileers, Wossman High School Band, Lenwill Elementary School Pep Squad, Neville High School Band, Ouachita Parish Junior High School, West Monroe Rebelettes, Highland Elementary School Cheer Leaders and Pep Squad, Lionettes, West Monroe High School "A" Band and "B" Band.

Is it possible for the voting machines used in Louisiana elections to be rigged — that is fixed so that a certain candidate will win no matter how the votes are cast?

State Custodian of Voting Machines Douglas Fowler answered with an emphatic "No!" Fowler added, "It can't be done. It simply is impossible. The machines are absolutely fool proof and they are the best, safest method voting that the ingenuity of man has ever devised. There are too many checks and cross checks that the average voter can make on election day that would prevent rigging, even if it could be done.

"A joint legislative committee has conducted an extensive investigation and it was determined by the committee that the machines could not be rigged. Cases charging voting machines rigging have also been carried to the Louisiana Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court and all decisions have been that such charges could not be substantiated by any proof."

Fowler also said that the type machine used in Monroe was manufactured first in 1898. "If they had not been honest and safe they could not have stayed in business this long."

What was the reason for the destruction of Lidice, Czechoslovokia?

This mining village was destroyed by the German occupation forces in World War II in retaliation for the murder of the German police general, Reinhard Heydrich, reichsprotektor for Bohemia and Moravia.

According to official German statements at the time, the village was destroyed June 10, 1942. The Germans suspected that some inhabitants had supported the patriots who killed Heydrich and ordered all the male inhabitants, irrespective of age, and 56 women executed immediately. All other women were moved into concentration camps and children were taken to correction schools. All buildings of the village were levelled to the ground and the name of the village "was immediately abolished."

The German actions aroused sympathy and protest around the world. Towns in several countries were renamed in commemoration of the village. These included Lidice, Ill., near Joliet.

What is a gasholder?

It is a vessel that serves the dual purpose of a storage place for manufactured gas and also as an instrument of measurement. Since the manufacture of gas must be maintained at an approximately even rate throughout the entire 24 hours of the day, while the rate of consumption varies considerable at the different hours of the day, it is necessary to provide storage for the gas produced during the minimum demand and also to provide against any temporary breakdown in the manufacturing plant. Its process is too complicated to be described here, but that is its purpose in general terms.

What was the "Little Entente"?

This was a mutual defense arrangement among Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania during the period between World War I and World War II. It was directed against German and Magyar dominance in the Danubian area and destruction of the freedom and territorial acquisitions won by those states in 1918 as a result of World War I.

The Little Entente took a lead in urging effective sanctions against Japan from 1931 to 1933. The organization was weakened by the assassination in France of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou in 1934. Milan Stojadinovic dominated Yugoslavia after the assassination and leaned toward a rapproachment toward Italy, Bulgaria and Germany. The Little Entente was destroyed Sept. 30, 1938, with the German annexation of the Sudetenland area of Czechoslovakia.

If I join the Armed Service, will my wife be required to pay all the bills which are in my name? If not, will I be required to pay them while in the service? The pay would be too small to cover all my debts and provide the necessities for my family.

You should either contact an attorney or ask your local armed forces recruiter about the Soldiers' and Sailors Civil Relief Act.

It is possible you may have difficulty, but in some cases when debtors are told about the circumstances, they will reduce the size of payments on items such as automobile and house notes. Protected by the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act are all persons on active duty, as well as public health service officers detailed for duty with the armed services, and persons training or studying under the supervision of the U.S., preliminary to induction into military service.

In some instances, it affords certain benefits to the dependents of persons in military service and to persons who have guaranteed the financial obligations of servicemen.

In court, the provisions of the act protect you against default judgment in a civil lawsuit unless a certain definite procedure, protecting your rights as a serviceman, is followed; allow you to ask a court to stay the proceedings at any stage of a lawsuit, thus stopping or delaying to a later date the proceedings of a suit, and exclude the period you are in the military service from running or being counted under statutes of limitations pertaining to lawsuits or proceedings before any government administrative board or agency.

If, because of reduced military income, you are unable to make payments when due on installment contracts, mortgages or trust deeds contracted for before you entered military service, the seller cannot repossess or foreclose on the property without a court's permission. The court may either advise you to return the property to the seller and the seller to return to you the amount you have already paid, or it may decide to let you keep the property and make smaller payments than called for in your contract.

There are many more provisions to the act.

Can a district attorney represent a client in court? Does he charge a fee for this service, or does he represent cases in court free?

The district attorney, or members of his staff, may and do represent clients in civil matters in courts, but cannot represent the defendant in criminal matters, since they must prosecute these cases.

The handling of civil cases by personnel of the district attorney's office is on the same fee basis as any other attorney.

Cases handled free of charge by attorneys are those appointed by the court to defend a person on felony counts. The defndant must sign a statement that he cannot afford to hire a lawyer, however, before the court will make the appointment.

Can I change the beneficiary on my U. S. Savings Bonds and, if so, how do I go about doing so?

You can do so. You will need a copy of Form PD 1787, obtainable at most banks or at any Federal Reserve Bank or branch. Part II of the form must be signed by the present beneficiary, giving consent to the proposed change.

Has the contract been issued, and if not, why, on the Cheniere bridge and adjoining strip of approximately 1,000 feet of roadway on the Jonesboro Road, about six miles out of West Monroe?

Louisiana Highway Department officials report that bids have not been taken, because the department is reluctant to let contracts in cases in which two contractors would be working in the same area.

Under construction already in the area is the Jonesboro Road from Louisiana Park, near the Luna Road intersection, to the paper mill vicinity. Completion of the project depends on the weather, but will be finished sometime next year.

The other project will be let soon afterwards.

When the state purchases property containing a drainage ditch previously maintained by the property's owner, who is thereafter responsible for the ditch's upkeep? Previously, the property containing the drainage ditch was owned by a trailer park and was maintained by the owner. Now the ditch is choked with weeds, is unsightly and contains stagnant water.

Fifth District Engineer A. A. Braddock of the Louisiana Highway Department says if the state purchased the property, it would be the state's responsibility to maintain it and the ditch. However, Braddock says the state has not purchased the property referred to.

He says it therefore is the responsibility of the owner to maintain.

An effort to clean out the ditch on the property has been made previously by the highway office, Braddock recalls, adding that it was necessary to resort to legal processes in order to gain access for the work.

Could you help me tell what time it is in Australia when it is noon here, please?

You did not designate where in Australia so this makes it difficult. Australia is broken down into three time zones. However, if you want to know about the populous east coast area where most of the cities are, it would be 4 a.m. the next day. If you want the central area, it would be 3 a.m. the next day. On the west coast — almost half the country on the western side — would be 2 a.m. the next day.

If the Federal Bureau of Investigation affiliated with any other branch of the government or is it a separate agency?

The FBI is an activity of the Department of Justice and is located at Ninth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, D. C. It investigates all violations of federal laws except those specifically assigned to some other agency by legislative action, such violations including counterfeiting of currency and internal revenue, postal and customs violations. The FBI also collects and classifies police and crime reports from across the nation. The FBI has 55 field divisions in the principal cities of the country.

Antipoverty Lawyers Are Fired From Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A simmering controversy over the slow pace of a House investigation of the war on poverty neared the boiling point Friday with the firing of three congressional investigators.

The three lawyers, hired earlier this year to help a special House education and labor subcommittee examine the $1.5 billion antipoverty program, were dismissed in what was described as a routine and long-planned staff realignment.

But the action brought closer to the surface discontent within the subcommittee over delays in conducting full scale hearings on antipoverty operations around the country.

A showdown on the subcommittee's timetable and the operation of its 16-member staff is likely next week when Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the full committee, returns from a Caribbean vacation.

Powell was expected to meet with subcommittee Democrats as well as some Republican members who have grown increasingly impatient over the pace of the investigation.

Subcommittee Republicans agreed to go along with a bipartisan inquiry ever since Powell got $200,000 from the House for an "in-depth" study of the antipoverty effort.

But the self-imposed truce on partisan criticism was beginning to crack even before the three investigators, described by one Republican as the best men on the subcommittee staff, were released.

The three men are Garrett Byrne of Boston, I. T. Creswell of Nashville, Tenn., and Warren Wilson of Everett, Wash.

A spokesman for Powell said the three lawyers were discharged to make room on the staff for other experts who will refine information the three had gathered in a preliminary study of antipoverty activities in 29 cities. Powell's aide said the subcommittee staff was aware at the start of the investigation of plans for a later shuffle of personnel.

This explanation did not satisfy Republicans involved, even though the three investigators were hired by the Democrats. The GOP critics said it did not appear coincidental that Byrne, Creswell and Wilson were the Democratic staff members most eager to push the investigation.

Subcommittee staff members all but completed filing reports on their preliminary investigations several weeks ago.

MRS. JOHN H. CRUMP

Former Monroe Resident Has Book Published

Mrs. John H. Crump of Lafayette, a former Monroe resident, has published her first book — a tiny volume of poetry entitled, "Reflections From My Heart."

Mr. and Mrs. Crump and their three daughters, Mary Anna, Jolaine and Alese, lived on Emerson Street here from 1964 to 1960.

Mrs. Crump said that many of the poems in her book were written while she was in Monroe.

She began writing poetry while attending Burris High School in Muncie, Ind., where two of her teachers encouraged her efforts. At Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., Mrs. Crump contributed poetry to two student anthologies, helped teach a group of junior writers in poetic composition and was a member of Chi Delta Phi, national honorary literary society.

"Reflections From My Heart" was published, Mrs. Crump explained, because she wished "to share and communicate with other people."

Members of her family and several friends contributed to the art etchings for the book.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Archbishop Trys To Shelve Nuclear Ban

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Archbishop Philip M. Hannan of New Orleans buttonholed fellow prelates Friday in a vigorous last-ditch campaign against the Vatican Ecumenical Council's total condemnation of nuclear arms. He hoped to get Pope Paul VI to shelve it.

The American prelate, who failed in a previous effort to modify what he considers the ban-the-bomb tone of the document, said many American and other bishops felt the way he did.

Archbishop Hannan acted with the council in recess before starting its final round of voting Saturday on its modern world problems schema, which includes the nuclear arms condemnation.

Council sources used the recess day to come up with some statistics on the assembly. It closes next Tuesday after four years of preparatory work and three of actual deliberation. The sources said the council cost the Roman Catholic Church about $20 million — with the Vatican bearing about half that amount and individual dioceses paying out the other half, largely for the expenses of bishops in traveling to Rome.

Archbishop Hannan did not name the prelates supporting him. Informed sources said one of them was Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York.

The New Orleans archbishop said he was contacting prelates "by every means possible" to tell them his objections to the nuclear weapons declaration. He said the final text of the declaration, distributed Thursday, remained unsatisfactory although some changes had been made.

The previous text specifically denounced the stockpiling of nuclear weapons as a defensive deterrent. Archbishop Hannan argued against that and said it might be construed as aimed at the United States. Amendments he proposed were defeated in the council.

But drafters, in preparing the final text, inserted a footnote saying the document was aimed at no one nation. They also deleted specific criticism of "a certain strategy of dissuasion. . in time of peace."

Archbishop Hannan said in an interview today that the final text "still talks of stockpiling as a great danger" for the world.

He said some persons "could almost draw the impression that the council is saying possession (of nuclear arms) is. . immoral.

"And this is certainly not true."

Archbishop Hannan said he was asking prelates to vote only against the nuclear arms section in chapter-by-chapter voting. He said he was not asking them to vote against the schema as a whole when the over-all vote is taken.

The schema also deals with birth control and other matters.

Campaign To Recruit Choir Boys Begins

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Royal College of Church Music is opening Saturday a campaign to recruit choir boys for the Church of England from the ranks of might-be beatniks and the tamer teen-agers.

It intends to put them ino

It intends to put them into uniforms and award them proficiency badges to keep them happy and singing.

The aims are to reinforce depleted church choirs and counter the popularity of beat groups among the young.

The 7,600 choirs in Britain and overseas affiliated with the school will be urged to back the program for a standardization of ranks, award of badges and, where possible, payment of choristers.

Dr. Gerald Knight, a director of the Royal College of Church Music, says it has never been more difficult to recruit choir boys. There is also an acute shortage of organists and choirmasters. He hopes the project also will mean the start of a new youth movement in the Anglican churches here and abroad.

Marin How, college headquarters commissioner, says young people will be encouraged to help run the choirs. They will have ranks, badges will be awarded for efficiency and there will be points for attendance. A chorister's progress will be charted from the moment he joined the choir.

The uniform, costing slightly under $8.40, will be a light blue anorak — a sweater-like hooded garment — with shoulder flashes and the college's badge worn on the left breast. Proficiency badges will be added to the uniform as gained.

Motorist Insurance Is Backed

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Two Baton Rouge attorneys experienced in handling the state's uninsured motorist insurance law said Friday it appears to be the best way to protect innocent persons in auto accidents.

Horace C. Lane and David W. Robinson told the Louisiana State Bar Association's winter conference the two-year-old law "appears to have gained wider acceptance with the public, the (insurance) industry and the regulatory bodies than any other plan offered."

The law requires auto insurance policies written in Louisiana to include specific protection for the buyer if he is involved in an accident with an uninsured motorist.

Lane said the uninsured motorist law does not punish the safe driver as does the compulsory liability insurance law.

Cullen Smith of Waco, Tex., chairman of an American Bar Association committee studying the economics of law practice, said, many people look to lawyers for leadership, and they may have to take steps aimed at increasing their income.

Meridith B. Turner of Springfield, Mo., said a survey in his state showed that laymen placed much more importance on the friendliness of their attorney that lawyers expected, listing it No. 1 on their list for the success of a lawyer-Client relationship.

The LSBA House of Delegates approved a resolution urging the legislature to provide funds to cover certain expenses incurred by an attorney representing indigent defendants.

Open House At Power Plant Set

Monroe's new $5,000,000 power plant and electrical facilities will be viewed by Monroe citizens in an open house from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Monroe Utilities Commission Power Plant at 900 Park Ave.

A special invitation to tour the plant and see how the $6,500,000 in improvement costs voted on in March, 1963, has been used, was offered by general manager F. L. Smith and commission chairman David M. Kaplan.

Free light bulbs will be presented to the guests as well as booklets describing the plant operation. The booklets are suitable for use with school children.

How the electricity to light a single light bulb is "manufactured" will be explained to visitors on guided tours of a new boiler and turbine - generator unit.

The Utilities Commission is comprised of local businessmen who serve without pay to maintain the municipally owned plant.

Fashion, Music Keynote Performance At Neville

By DIANE TAYLOR
World Staff Writer

High fashion and music were the pass words at a Christmas Choir Festival and Fashion show held at Neville Auditorium Friday night, presented by The Palace Hi - Fashion Board and featuring the choirs of Neville, Ouachita and West Monroe High Schools.

The Hi - Fashion - Board is composed of high school students of Twin Cities high schools who act in an advisory capacity to teenage customers at the store and who work part-time to assist in youth style selections by the store.

It was the first public program which featured all three of the high school choirs at the same event.

The West Monroe High School Choir members received as much applause as did the hi-fashion models when they came on stage. The boys were wearing traditional black suits with black ties and girls wore light blue A - line skimmers.

The choir, directed by Mrs. Arnold Kilpatrick, sang several Christmas melodies, including "Let It Snow," "Little Drummer Boy," and "Holiday Polka."

The O.P.H.S. Singers, wearing their standard maroon choir robes with white sashes were directed by Bill Herring through a popular Yuletide cantata, "The Song of Christmas."

Neville Choir members also wore robes, black with gold sashes, and Mrs. Nina Harris directed them through a number of holiday songs including "Joy To The World," "Do You Hear What I Hear," and "Jingle Bells." The Neville chorus also sang the final musical number, with the assistance of a combo from the school orchestra.

The audience showed appropriate appreciation of all the choirs and many times applause lasted slightly longer than customary because of the appeal of particular numbers sung.

The hi-fashion models showed sleepwear first which proved that no matter how practical the simple and tailored costume is, girls like frills better. Especially appealing was an off - white French flannel robe with sleeves, hem and neckline edged in val lace.

For the raised - eyebrow look, one girl modeled a jump suit of pure silk brightly printed on an aqua background.

Heather tones were popular colors in the sporting wear modeled by male and female members of the fashion board.

Girls preferred soft woolens combined with matching sweaters. A bell bottom pants set of Italian velveteen teamed with a long sleeve white crepe blouse with ruffled cuffs was typical of the girls' choices and boys chose sweaters with swede motifs, wool parka - style jackets and hopsack and no-iron slacks.

A dusty pink wool double knit suit with slim skirt and shell and a tie at the neckline drew much admiration, indicating again that the totally feminine look in costumes for young ladies has shoved aside the tailored and untrimmed classic styles.

Several unusual and particularly lovely colors were shown in the style show included rose geranium, putty beige and saffire blue.

Evening wear featured elegant slim lines, ostrich feather trims, beaded trims and panel backs. Most popular fabrics for the young ladies' gowns were chiffon and satin.

A long sleeve evening coat beaded with lime crystals at the wrists. The A-line skirt on the evening dress was topped by an empire waist, trimmed with a bow that matched the lime crystals.

Members of the hi - fashion board completely planned and produced the program, according to Jim Newburn of the Palace advertising department.

Negro Store Boycott Ends In Natchez

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — The Negro boycott of all downtown stores ended Friday with civil rights leaders hailing the outcome as a historic victory.

Charles Evers, Mississippi field director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said agreements with merchants and with the city government were "the greatest concessions granted any civil rights organization."

"We have worked to make it better for all of us — not just the Negro," he added. "We bear no malice or hatred against whites and hope they have none against us."

The agreements were made public at a crowded news conference in Mayor John Nosser's office. The white-haired mayor winced at the term "concessions." He said he preferred agreements. He declined to expand on his brief statement.

Evers, of Jackson, said 23 stores in the downtown area met demands for opening new job opportunities to Negroes as clerks or cashiers. Heretofore, Negroes were limited to menial jobs.

Stores which did not go along with the agreement remained under boycott. NAACP leaders said the greatest majority were included among those accepting the terms.

Six stores folded during the three-month economic squeeze.

It was the most effective boycott ever imposed by civil rights forces in the South. Its effect was increased by the fact that many whites also stayed away from the area for fear of becoming involved in racial trouble.

Agreements wrung from the city government included the hiring of six Negro policemen, orders that city employes treat all citizens courteously, city hiring without regard to race and a plan to begin desegregation of city schools next September.

Pope Paul Considering Creating More Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI was reported Friday considering a plan to give a new dimension to the College of Cardinals, possibly creating as many as 150 new cardinals.

The report came from a European Roman Catholic Church source who indicated details of the idea still were vague. There was no comment from Vatican officials.

Creation of 150 cardinals would give the Church almost 250 princes of the Church — more than three times as many as it had before Pope John XXIII broke a centuries-old ceiling of 70.

Pope Paul created 27 cardinals last February at the only consistory he has held for the elevation of cardinals. The action increased the membership in the college to 103, its biggest ever. Four have died since then.

At the time of that consistory, Pope Paul said he would create additional cardinals at the end of the Vatican Ecumenical Council. With the approach of the council's closing day, next Wednesday, rumors have increased that the consistory might soon be announced, possibly at the final ceremony.

Many at the Vatican feel, however, that he will wait until after Christmas.

When Pope Paul increased the College of Cardinals to a record high, he said he did not seek numerical inflation but a "more effective representation of authority, collegiality, experience, tradition, culture and worth."

The College of Cardinals is clearly an evolving institution, and the report of a dramatic increase in size came with this background. Informants said it would help demonstrate the concept of collegiality, or shared authority, between the Pope and his bishops. The sources also felt a three-fold increase in the College of Cardinals — from the old 70 figure — would be a conservative one compared with the rate of world population growth.

Informants said the increase might come over an extended period, with Pope Paul naming 10 to 20 cardinals at a time.

His consistory after the council is expected to be largely for the creation of cardinals to serve on the Vatican Curia administration. But some residential prelates — including Archbishop John Patrick Cody of Chicago — are expected to get red hats too.

Monroe Man Fined $490 On Charges

Acting Judge W. L. Crowe, presiding in Monroe City Court Friday, fined a Monroe man, Ed Burks Jr., a total of $490 and costs on battery charges.

Burks, 910 Bethune St., was fined $460 for aggravated battery, and $30 for simple battery.

Fined $100 and costs for theft was Mary Brown of 3812 Owl St., Monroe.

A count of theft by check against Allan White, whose address was listed as "rear Coke plant, Monroe," was nolle prossed.

Theft counts against Tommy Griffin of Rt. 1, Box 70, Calhoun; and Bill Windsor of 1818 Adams St., Monroe, were discharged.

Leroy Stewart of 3017 Polk St., Monroe, forfeited $100 bond on a charge of simple battery.

Penalties paid to the traffic violations bureau for negligent driving were Betty Jean Wiley of 204 Gatley St., West Monroe, $30 and costs; and Levi Williams of 201 Atkinson St., Monroe, $10 and costs.

Penalties paid for speeding were Charles T. McCants of 335 Bon Air Hall, Monroe, and Marion D. Bagwell of 401 Browning St., West Monroe, both $17 and costs; and William D. Littleton of 503 Splane Dr., West Monroe, $10 and costs.

Hearing On Doe Hunting Is Canceled

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Joe Hair Jr., director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, said Friday night a hearing scheduled earlier in the day on a move to block doe deer hunting in two north Louisiana parishes had been canceled.

Hair, of Baton Rouge, said the hearing was called off after two legislators from Franklin and Morehouse parishes withdrew their request for a restraining order to block doe hunting in the Chicago Mills State Game Management area in their parishes.

Rep. Lantz Womack of Franklin Parish and Sen. W. Spencer Myrick of Morehouse Parish withdrew their complaint Thursday, Hair said, making the hearing unnecessary.

Hair said their suit, aimed at preventing the commission from setting a doe deer season in their parishes, actually accomplished the purpose they sought because they had earlier obtained a temporary restraining order blocking a doe season in their areas.

Hair said Morehouse had a one-day season only, Franklin a five-day season, and both had expired before the scheduled hearing date.

Tickets For Show Will Go On Sale

Northeast Louisiana State College student tickets for the appearance of the Fred Waring Show at Neville Auditorium here on Dec. 13 at 8:15 p.m. go on sale at the Hostess' Desk in the College Union Building Monday.

Davis Bingham, chairman of the Northeast State Concerts Association, which is sponsoring the performance, said a limited number of seats have been reserved especially for NLSC students and tickets will be available on a "first come, first served" basis at $1 each. Each student must present his valid Northeast State ID card to be eligible to purchase tickets.

If sufficient interest is expressed, arrangements may be made to have a special afternoon matinee on the same date for College students, Bingham said.

Auditions Set For Parts In Musical Here

Singers, actors and dancers to fill 25 male and female roles in "How to Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," are needed, according to George Black, executive director of the Little Theatre of Monroe.

Auditions of characters of all ages in the musical will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Strauss Playhouse.

The play will be presented in mid-February. Black said girl dancers should come to try-outs with leotards or shorts and dancing shoes.

Bill Herring will be musical director for the winter musical, a position he also held for the local presentations of "The Sound of Music" and "The King and I."

Choreographer will be Curtis Rape.

"How to Succeed" ran on Broadway for four years with Rudy Vallee and Robert Morse in the lead roles.

The local theatre is among the first community theatres to secure the musical's release for amateur production. Rehearsals will begin Jan. 3.

Link Of New Highway Is Opened Here

The link of new highway through West Monroe was officially opened to traffic Friday as signs marking the former route of La. Hwy. 34 removed on Natchitoches and other streets.

The signs will be re-installed on the new regulation posts already erected along the new route, according to C. M. Dickerson, sign foreman for the Louisiana Department of Highways.

Workmen for the highway department jacked up more than a dozen signs Friday and prepared to install them on the new route.

A small public park has been preserved along the right-of-way where La. 34 connects with Fourth Street in West Monroe. The area is bounded by Stella and Mill Streets.

Police Activity Very Light Here

Police activity was light in the Twin Cities Friday.

Monroe police charged Robert S. Myers, 28, of Ashboro, N. C. with theft.

Lawrence F. Gardner, 55, of 3414 Renwick St., Monroe, was booked with driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. He was apprehended on Powell at 9:50 p.m.
